TROUBLE IN SPAIN, civil war, a hundred killed, the Red flag run up in the street, guards in the barracks attacked, some killed by Communists that call themselves "Lenin's Forces."

Religious trouble in Mexico. Three killed, eight wounded in the City of Puebla. The government had seized as state property St. Teresa's Catholic public school. Parents and pupils protested and tear gas was used. The Associated Press reports trouble in Magdalena also; pilgrims gathering for veneration of St. Francis Xavier, protested the destruction of a plaster image of the saint that formerly had been attached to the Magdalena Cathedral, and had been removed to Hermosillo, where it was destroyed.

The Associated Press says "State authorities regard the destruction as evidence of the passing of superstition among the people."

A group of warlike Yaqui Indians, the hardest fighters in Mexico, who do not agree with that view, are on the march to avenge the destruction of the saint's image and soldiers are on the watch for them.

The company that has a monopoly of supplying gas to New York city would like at least eight per cent profit on its money, and Mr. J. E. Baker, financial expert, says that would be "a reasonable figure."

Others, less ambitious, would be very grateful if you would tell them how to invest what money they have left at four per cent, plus safety.

Those that once had plenty of dollars, gold dollars, after 1929, found the number of their dollars cut in two. Now they find the remaining dollar's value cut in two. Paper substituted for gold. Some of our "best" and richest minds are agitated, in fact, "scared half to death," possibly with good reason.

They would like to invest their dollars at four per cent, even two per cent, with a certainty of having it intact two years hence.

Interesting wedding in New York, reporters excited, because a young man, presumably with much money, Charles Cary Rumsey, married a young girl, Miss Mary Melones, with little money. Young Mr Rumsey, Harvard 1933, Porcellian Club member, likes his father before him, which means a good deal at Harvard, is the grandson of E. H. Harriman, who gathered in and built railroads, from one

PLAY-BY-PLAY

FIRST INNING

TIGERS—White lifted a short fly to Orsatti. Cochrane bounced to Frisch near second base and was tossed out. Gehringer singled sharply over second. Goslin lined to outfield, NO RUNS, ONE HIT, NO ERRORS, ONE LEFT.

SECOND INNING

TIGERS — Rogell struck out. Greenberg singled past short. Owen popped to Frisch. Fox popped to Durocher. NO RUNS, ONE HIT, NO ERRORS, NONE LEFT.

CARDINALS — Medwick singled to center, Collins doubled off right field screen Medwick going to third. Delancey walked filling the bases. Crowder warming up. Orsatti flied out to Goslin, Medwick scoring after the catch. Durocher flied to Fox, runners holding their bases. Carleton forced Delancey, Rogell to Gehringer. ONE RUN, TWO HITS, NO ERRORS, TWO LEFT.

THIRD INNING

TIGERS—Auk r flied to Orsatti, who crashed into the center field wall after the catch, but held the ball. White struck out. Cochrane doubled down the right filed line. Gehringer walked. Goslin walked, filling the bases. Rogell singled to center, scoring Cochrane and Gehringer and sending Goslin to third. Carleton was taken out and Vance went to the mound. Greenberg smashed a single off Durocher's glove, Goslin scoring and Rogell going to third. Owen was safe on his grounder to third when Martin's throw pulled Collins off the bag. Fox struck out. THREE RUNS, THREE HITS, NO ERROR, THRE LEFT.

CARDINALS—Martin was thrown out by Owen. Gehringer threw out Rothrock. Frisch got a single when Rogell lost his pop fly in the sun. Medwick walked. Collins singled to center, scoring Frisch and sending Medwick to third. Delancey was out, Auker to Greenberg. ONE RUN, TWO HITS, NO ERRORS, AND TWO LEFT.

FOURTH INNING

TIGERS—Auker fanned. White walked. White stole second and took third when Delancey threw to center field, but the error was charged to Martin because he dropped the ball after umpire had called runner out. White scored on a wild pitch. Cochrane struck out. Frisch threw out Gehringer. ONE RUN, NO HITS, ONE ERROR, NONE LEFT.

CARDINALS—Orsatti singled to center. Durocher hit to Owen who threw to Gehringer both runners being safe when Gehringer dropped the ball. V. Davis batted for Vance and dropped a single over Greenberg's head scoring Orsatti and sending Durocher to third. Dizzy Dean ran for Davis. Martin hit to Gehringer forcing Dean, Gehringer in throwing to make a double play to Rogell, Durocher scoring. Rogell hit Dean on the head knocking him out. Players of both teams are around Dean who is on the ground near second base.

Dean was carried of the field in the arms of four of his mates but he had come to. Rothrock filed out to Goslin. Frisch forced Martin, Gehringer, unassisted. TWO RUNS, TWO HITS, ONE ERROR, ONE LEFT.

FIFTH INNING

Tigers—Bill "Lefty" Walker was the third pitcher to take the mound for the Cardinals. Goslin was out, Frisch to Collins. Rogell flied deep to Orsatti. Greenberg reached first when Martin fumbled his grounder. Martin threw out Owen. NO RUNS, NO HITS, ONE ERROR, ONE LEFT.

SIXTH INNING

SEVENTH INNING

TIGERS—Gehringer singled to center. Goslin sacrificed and was out, Martin to Collins. Rogell hit to Durocher who threw to third, but when Martin dropped the ball both runners were safe. Greenberg doubled scoring Gehringer and sending Rogell to third. Owen lined to Rothrock, the runners holding their bases. Fox was purposely passed filling the bases. Frisch threw out Auker, ONE RUN, TWO HITS, ONE ERROR, THREE LEFT.

EIGHTH INNING

TIGERS—White walked. Cochrane bunted and both runners were safe when Walker threw to center field. Gehringer sacrificed, Collins to Frisch. Goslin was purposely passed. Rogell singled, scoring White and Cochrane, and sending Goslin to third, Greenberg tripled off right field wall, scoring Goslin and Rogell. After a consultation of umpires, Greenberg was sent back to second and Rogell to third because a fan in bleachers touched the Greenberg hit. That was all for Walker. Jess Haines was the fourth pitcher for the Cards.

Owen singled, scoring Rogell. White fanned, and on a double steal, Greenberg scored and Owen took third, when Frisch's throw got away from Delancey. Delancey was given the error. Auker struck out. FIVE RUNS, THREE HITS, TWO ERRORS, ONE LEFT.

CARDINALS — Delancey lined out to Owen. Orsatti singled. Durocher hit to Greenberg, who dropped the ball but threw to the fourth to make the count Tigers 4, Cards 2. After Auker fanned White walked, stole second and took third when Delancey threw to center field, yet the error was charged to Martin who dropped the ball after the ump called the runner out. White then raced home on a wild pitch, Cochrane fanned and Frisch threw out Gehringer.

The Cards scored two runs to tie the count in the fourth. Orsatti singled and was safe when Durocher grounded to Owen, whose toss was muffed by Gehringer. V. Davis batted for Vance and singled, scoring Orsatti and chasing Durocher to third. Dizzy Dean ran for Davis. Martin hit to Gehringer, forcing Dean, while Durocher scored. Rogell, attempting to make a double play, hit Dean on the head, knocking him out. Dean was carried off the field.

Bill "Lefty" Walker was the third hurler to take up the Cards pitching assignment, in the fifth. Martin fumbled Greenberg's grounder to let Hank reach first, but otherwise Walker had no trouble.

The Tigers went out front in the seventh, scoring one run. Gehringer singled, Goslin sacrificed, Rogell hit to Durocher whose toss to third was muffed by Martin and both men were safe. The muff was Martin's third of the day.

Greenberg doubled to send Gehringer home and make the score Tigers 5, Cards 4.

The Tigers drove Bill Walker from the sill in the eighth after scoring three runs. White walked. Cochrane bunted and both were safew hen Walker threw to center. Gehringer sacrificed, Goslin walked and Rogell singled to score White and Cochrane.

Greenberg tripled to score Goslin and Rogell, but the hit was ruled a double and Rogell was ordered back to third because a bleacher fan touched the Greenberg blow.

Owen bingled to send Rogell home. Greenberg scored and Owen took third on a double play that was aided by Delancey's error after White fanned. Auker struck out to end the misery and leave the tally, Tigers 10, Cards 4.

CARDS TALLY IN 8D

The Cards scored a run in the third when Frisch singled, went to second while Medwick walked, and scored on Collins' single.

The Tigers made another run in Rogell, forcing Orsatti. Crawford batted for Haines and was thrown out by Gehringer. NO RUNS, ONE HIT, ONE ERROR, ONE LEFT.

NINTH INNING

Cardinals—Martin beat out a hit to Rogell. Rothrock filed to White. Frisch hit into a double play.

'DIZZY' DEAN HIT ON HEAD AND KAYOED

By Joe Cashman

Sportsman's Park, St. Louis, Oct. 6—Mickey Cochrane's Tigers staged a great comeback here this afternoon to square the World Series count at two wins each by beating the St. Louis Cardinals before a throng of 38,000 fans.

Ter Carleton for the Cardinals—and young Elton Auker of the Tigers were starting pitchers.

An accident that for a time was feared serious occured in the Cards' half of the fourth, during which the club scored twice to tie the count at four-all.

Dizzy Dean ran for Virgil Davis, who was on first, with Durocher on third. Then Martin hit to Gehringer, forcing Dean, Gehringer to Rogell. The latter, attempting to make a double play, attempted to throw to first and the ball hit Dean on the head, knocking him out. He was carried from the field, but latter reports were that he would suffer no lasting injury.

X-ray examination was planned, however, to determined the exact extent of Dean's injury.

Charley Gehringer made the opening hit of the game in the first when he singled with two on. Goose Goslin filed out to end the inning.

In the Cards' half of the frame, Martin walked, but Rothrock hit into a double play, and Frisch filed out.

Hank Greenberg, dropped to sixth place in the Tiger batting order, singled on his first time up, in the second chapter.

TIGERS SCORE 2

The Cardinals hopped into the lead in the second, scoring one run. Medwick singled and went to third on Collins' double. Delancey walked. Medwick scored a moment later after Goselin caught Orsatti's long drive. Durocher filed out, and Carleton forced Delancey to end the rally.

The Tigers' vaunted batting power at last told, in the third. Orsatti made a brilliant catch of Auker's long drive against the fence and White fanned. Then the massacre commenced. Cochrane doubled, Gehringer and Goslin walked and Rogell singled to score Cochrane and Gehringer.

Dazzy Vance then got his long awaited chance to enter a Series games, replacing Carleton on the hill. Hank Greenberg singled to score Goslin and Rogell went to third. Owen singled but Rogell didn't try to tally on the infield grounder and Fox struck out to halt the play.

CARDS TALLY IN 8D

The Cards scored a run in the third when Frisch singled, went to second while Medwick walked, and scored on Collins' single.

The Tigers made another run in Manchester, Conn., Oct. 6 (AP)—A change in personnel affecting senior members of the Cheney brothers, silk manufacturers, was announced today by Ward Cheney, president. Those retiring are Horace B. Cheney, Charles H. Cheney, Howell Cheney, Colonel William C. Cheney and Louis S. Carter, treasurer.

BRUNO PLACED AT KIDNAP SITE

By International News Service

New York, Oct. 6—Positive identification of Bruno Richard Hauptmann as a man seen "at the Lindbergh kidnaping scene" on the night baby Charles Lindbergh was stolen from his crib was announced today by New Jersey state police.

The identification, police said, was made by Millard Whited, Lambertville, N. J., painter, who picked the Bronx carpenter out of a line-up of suspected prisoners.

Mae West's Reprisal Fears Scoffed at by Suspect

By Universal Service

New York, Oct. 6—Recent reports that Mae West had cancelled her plans to appear at Chicago's fair because she feared reprisals from one of the men indicted in connection with her $17,000 jewel robbery were vigorously denied today by Harry O. Voller, motion picture executive charged in California with conspiracy to rob the film star.

Voller, who has sued California authorities on charges of false arrest in connection with the case, said:

"I am sure the story about Miss West's fear of coming east was issued without her knowledge. I have known her for many years and am very fond of her."

Voller, who for many years has held the motion picture rights on all Madison Square Garden prize fights and who operates a studio here, maintained his innocence, saying:

"I am willing to go to California at any time to stand trial. In fact, I am anxious to go if the authorities there will demand a reasonable bail. I had nothing to do with that robbery and can prove my innocence."

Driver Shot Down After Killing 2

Chico, Cal., Oct. 6 (AP)—An automobile driver, sought on a report of drunkenness, shot and killed a state highway policeman and a garage employe near here early today and was tracked down several hours later by a posse and slain.

The dead:

William R. McDaniel, 30, state highway policeman.

Nick Turchinets, 45, a jeweler.

Kenneth Davis, garage man.

The jeweler, an ex-convict, was cornered on a ranch about three miles from his residence.

SEAMEN CALL OFF STRIKE

The strike of the International Seamen's Union of America set for Monday and intended to tie up shipping on the Atlantic seaboard and gulf district, has been called off, it was announced today by union officials.

In the announcement it was said that many shipping companies have agreed to recognize the union. It was largely through disagreement over this question that the strike was called.

Lloyd Garrison, chairman of the National Labor Relations Board, sai dthat by October 1, 28 companies had agreed to recognize the union.

Driver Gets 4 Months

James S. Morley, 32, of Perkins square, Jamaica Plain, was sentenced to four months in the House of Correction today, when he appeared before Judge Edward Logan. Morley was accused of operating an automobile on Broadway, September 20, which struck and killed Mary Pyne, 6, of Athens street, South Boston.

Three Drives Launched in Sunken Treasure Hunt

New York, Oct. 6—Three keys to unlock the secret caverns of the deep and reclaim the boundless treasures buried there for centuries were produced by man's ingenuity today.

One was a two-sided race by rival expeditions that sought to wrench from the mud of the East river $50,000,000 in golden guineas that went down in 1780 with the British troop-ship Hussar.

Another was hailed as the realization of age-old dream by scientists of a chemical process that would drain the gold and silver of the sea-water by a solution of colloidal sulphur.

STRANGE INVENTION

The third took the form of a strange craft designed by Simon Lake, father of the submarine. But this craft was no stranger than the first undersea boat born from the brain of this nautical genius.

One of the two expeditions of treasure hunters, who are racing each other against time to find the 9,600,000 British guineas, claimed today that they had found timbers of the sunken Hussar.

That treasure, almost inestimable in its value now, with most of the world off the gold standard, was consigned to New York to pay the troops of His Majesty George III.

Analyses must determine whether the timbers are white or black oak, he said. British ships of the Revolutionary era were built of black oak. American craft used the white species.

The dream of science to wrest from the seas the treasure contents in solution in its waters was revealed by Dr. Willard H. Dow, identified with a chemical company.

He disclosed at a meeting of the American Chemical Society that a tiny nugget, weighing one-tenth of a milligram, half of gold and half of silver, had been recovered by his experts from 12 tons of ocean.

The latest dream-child of old Simon Lake was christened today at the Housatonic shipbuilding this morning. The launching itself was postponed because of mechanical difficulties with the apparatus.

Lake, whose plans are universal in scope, said that he, too, may enter the race for the Hussar's golden cargo.

500,000 CHEER MUSSOLINI

By International News Service

Milan, Oct. 6—With a warning to Germany to abandon policies isolating her from the world, and a reaffirmation of Italy's determination to safeguard Austrian independence, Premier Benito Mussolini today reviewed the fruits of his regime in the birthplace of Fascism.

In an impassioned address, interrupted when some of his half-million listeners broke through a cordon of troops to get near him, Il Duce defended the Fascist idea of a corporative state, said obsequies over the dead body of disarmament and once again bade the people of Italy to train themselves for war.

It was the 12th anniversary that brought Il Duce to his place on a towering scaffolding before Milan's ancient cathedral.

The tumultuous reception and the signs blazoned through the city describing him as "Greater Than Caesar" indicated his followers are even more loyal today than when he led a faint hope and started his historic march on Rome.

Milford Man Fined in Brother's Death

Milford, Oct. 6 — George Olsen, who police say, accidentally struck and killed his brother Joseph on the Medway road Saturday night, was today fined $50 in the Milford court and given a two-years' suspended sentence in House of Correction for driving while under the influence of liquor.

Death Toll Grows as Reds Fight Spanish Troops

Zaragoza, Spain, Oct. 6 (AP)—Official sources today said a warrant had been issued for the arrest of former Premier Diega Martinez Barrios as leader of the Extremist rebellion in Aragon.

Copyright, 1934, by the Associated Press

Madrid, Oct. 6—The death toll in Spain's Extremist rebellion mounted to 104 persons at noon today, with at least 350 wounded, as machine guns, rifles and pistols obliterated a government statement that tranquility had been restored.

Five extremists were killed and several wounded in Oviedo, in the first trouble in the provincial capital, and in Madrid three were killed including a guard in an interchange of shots.

Reports from Trubia said workers in an arms factory there had armed themselves from the company storeroom, seized the plant and successfully withstood the assault of troops.

SOCIETY GIRL SLAIN

One of those killed was a young girl and two others in high social circles.

Trouble in the mining regions of Asturias accounted for six of the morning's dead.

In Madrid, a boy of 14 on his way to school and an unidentified laborer were killed when caught in a crossfire between extremists and civil guards in the Cuatro Caminos district.

The new Madrid outbreak was between a group of workers and guards in front of a hotel.

More than 1,000 persons were arrested throughout the troubled area.

Troops acting under martial law established early today in Asturias, are shooting all rebels found with arms.

In Turon Aller and Langreo there was severe fighting.

CABINET NEAR FALL

The two-day-old government of Premiere Lerroux was generally believed to be reaching the critical stage, that of smashing the revolt or falling before the long plotted onslaught.

Two more Socialists were killed and six wounded at Mondragon after they opened fire on troops from ambush. The important arms center of Eibar was quiet after it was retaken by the troops in a five-hour battle which counted most of the casualties.

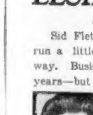
It's the information that something of interest to Greater Bostonians has taken place or will take place. Do you know, for instance, that an important meeting is scheduled for a certain date, that an accident has happened, that there is going to be a business merger, that a celebrity is coming to town? That's a news tip. There will be given $25 weekly for the best first exclusive news tip received, $10 for the next best, $5 for the next best and $1 prizes for each of the 10 next most valuable tips. This offer is now in effect. Remember that SPEED is the watchword. First to the telephone wins the award. News tips mean money.

Listen, World!

by ELSIE ROBINSON

I BELIEVE IN AMERICA

Sid Fletcher's disgusted. Sid and the Mrs. run a little general store on the Lincoln Highway. Business hasn't been so good these last years—but that isn't what's bothering Sid.



Elsie Robinson

"It's the way everyone talks nowadays that takes the heart out of you," says he. "As if they'd given up hope and didn't give a hang whether school kept or not. In the old days, no matter how hard times were, you felt that America would come out top side. But lately everything's in such a mess you don't know what to bank on.

"Martha and I have always managed to see the sunny side of things—even when we were up against it worst. But this general to-hell-with-everything attitude is sure getting us down. So she suggested to me to write to you and ask you how you feel about things."

* * * *

I feel sunk, plenty of the time, Sid and Martha. I get to wondering, just as you do, what it's all about and if it's all worth while. I'm even tempted to begin diddering about the Good Old Days—though, having lived through them, I know darned well they weren't within a million miles of being as "good" as the ancients would have you believe. And these moods became so pesty that I finally decided to do something about them.

I sat down one day and thought about America, long and hard—as one chews over a personal problem. Soft corns, for instance, or mother-in-law, or how to get next to the Boss.

I thought of all I knew about America from history and from 51 years of watching her do her stuff. I thought of the frontier America where I was born, and what that frontier had cost in faith and sacrifice and red hot courage. I thought of this modern America which seems so senseless, so heartless, and of the endless evidence which comes to me, proving that it's neither.

* * * *

Last of all, I thought about myself and America. What had America done for me? What did America mean to me? How did I really feel about America?

That, I realized, was the most important question of all. Once it didn't matter much how one felt about America—we could take her for granted, as one takes the solid earth for granted. But now America's going through heavy weather. How'll she come out? And what will happen to us if she doesn't? That won't depend on the politicians—the congressmen—or even on the President. It depends on how you and I feel about America.

So for hours I thought, Sid—and some of the things I thought weren't so hot! But I didn't duck them. I honestly tried to see the whole picture. And after I'd seen it as well as I could, I sat down and wrote what I'm about to give you.

* * * *

It's a Confession of Faith—something to hold to when my bewildered brain and aching heart fail me. And since I've made it part of my working creed I feel better about things. I get just as mad, just as worried and wrung, but these words steady me—help me march on. And so I'm passing them along—

I BELIEVE IN AMERICA!

I believe in that hope upon which she was founded.

I believe that it was the finest vision of government and brotherly relation which men have ever conceived.

And I believe that that vision was an inevitable thing—that it had to come in the course of human evolution; that it was part of God's plan as well as man's plan.

I realize that we've bungled that plan. I realize that the men who made America, and the men who have kept her going, weren't perfect. I admit that much in American history was weak, ill-advised and often downright shameful.

* * * *

SO I BELIEVE IN AMERICA!

AND, GOD HELPING ME, I SHALL HOLD FAST TO THAT FAITH THROUGH EVERY DISCOURAGEMENT OR DISASTER.

TWINS TO DECIDE STOCK MARATHON

ABE FABER ILL; MILLENS LOSE HIGH SPIRIT

Abe Faber, convicted of murder in the Needham bank robbery, who with Murton and Irving Millen is awaiting sentence of death in Dedham jail, was ill today, one of the prison guards reported.

Although his condition is not serious, the prisoner was unable to eat the jail fare and sent out this morning for scrambled eggs and toast.

With the report of Faber's illness came the announcement that for the last week the Millen brothers have lost spirit and spend almost all their time lying in their cells.

Day and night guards still keep watch by their cells.

In the women's section, Norma Brighton Millen, Murton's wife, is reported to be performing her new duties without complaint. She helps with the cleaning and spends the rest of her time in the sewing room.

COLLINS SEES 'NO-FIX JOKER'

A "joker" in the tag law whereby all fines under the "no fix" system go to the state was charged today by William D. Collins, clerk of the Municipal court.

The city may lose approximately $15,000 in revenue between now and Dec. 1, if he sets stated.

Collins will seek to have the law amended.

Since the "no fix" law went into effect last Monday 1250 notices have been mailed out to violators by the police and of this number 342 already have paid fines of $3.

Stepchildren Fight Cheney Legacies

Barnstable, Oct. 6—That Mrs. Harriet W. Cheney, of Sandwich, once formed the clause in her husband's will, stipulating that she lose her legacy if she remarry, "a dirty trick" was revealed in testimony given here by her stepson, Harold Cheney, of Waban.

The hearing on the legal battle by young Cheney and his sister, Mrs. Ruth C. Noble of Brookline, contesting the will of their father, Charles W. Cheney, former vice-president of the Mellon's Food Company, was continued until Monday by Judge Cullen C. Campbell of probate court.

Under the terms of Cheney's will two thirds of the estate was left to his wife.

Truckman Held After Bus Crash

Because the driver of a passenger bus pursued a truck that had allegedly crashed into him, and then proceeded without stopping, Louis C. Lanouette, 33, of Lebanon street, Melrose, operator of the truck, was under arrest today charged with drunkenness.

According to police the truck crashed into the bus as it was stopped on Salem street, Malden, to let off passengers.

CITY WORKERS GUARD RIGHTS

Cambridge's 650 school teachers, 200 policemen and 200 firemen are organizing a "mutual protection" group, it was learned today.

Preliminary plans have been worked out at secret meetings.

Leaders have been present at these meetings and another such gathering is scheduled for next week when, it is expected, organization plans will be completed.

It was said that the group is non-political. Its lone interest, it was said, is to "protect" city employes. It was agreed by those close to the proposal that the organization was brought about by the "voluntary contribution" and "salary cut" plan of Mayor Russell.

Millions More for Trees

Elkins, W. Va., Oct. 6 (AP)—President Roosevelt has allotted $100,000,000 more to buy forest lands in the East. It is in continuation of the program under which 69 areas totaling 9,592,277 acres have been added to the nation's woodland reserves.

MORSE SEARCH NARROWED

Suspicion in the extortion plot against John T. Morse, Jr., 94-year-old biographer and second eldest Harvard graduate, has narrowed down to one man, according to federal investigators today.

They intend him, they said, through the texture of the paper upon which demands were made for $100,000 under threats of harm to Morse and his daughter, Miss Charlotte Morse, 51. Miss Morse said:

"My father wishes to correct impression, that may have been given that a certain man is under suspicion.

"My father thinks that there also have been innuendoes made in this case which are improper because they appear to be referring to other persons who are not at all under suspicion."

Town Treasurer Dies

Bridgeport, Conn., Oct. 6 (INS)—James Pomeroy Stowe, 84, for 50 years treasurer of the town of Middletown, die dat Bridgeport Hospital heretoday following a heart attack suffered 10 days ago.

FISCH CLEARED OF BLAME IN LINDY CASE

New York, Oct. 6—District Attorney Samuel J. Foley declared today that his case against Bruno Richard Hauptmann, alleged Lindbergh extortionist, was complete "with the exception of some slight details."

Foley said he was ready to go to trial and expressed his conviction that Hauptmann would be found guilty of the extortion charge.

Foley absolved Isidore Fisch of any connection with the Lindbergh case. He said:

"Fisch had nothing to do with it."

USED AS "ALIBI"

Fisch was used by Hauptmann as an alibi in his explanation of how he happened to be in possession of the ransom money. Hauptmann claimed Fisch, before leaving for Germany last December, left a shoe box in his safe keeping.

Fisch died in Leipzig, Germany, of tuberculosis last March. According to Hauptmann, when he opened the box he found, to his surprise, that it contained bills.

The district attorney's announcement followed a meeting between the stolid German carpenter and his wife in Foley's office.

Hauptmann and his wife, who has consistently declared her husband could not have been connected in any way with either the kidnaping of the Lindbergh baby or the extortion, were together for about fifteen minutes.

GUARDED BY FOUR

Hauptmann was led to the courthouse from the Bronx County jail by four sheriff's deputies.

Following the meeting, Mrs. Hauptmann was asked what her husband had said. She replied:

"He talked just like anybody else."

Asked if she could remember what Hauptmann did the night of April 2, 1932, when Dr. John F. "Jafsie" Condon tossed $50,000 ransom money to an emissary of the kidnapers over the wall of a Bronx cemetery, Mrs. Hauptmann exclaimed:

"If only I could remember three years back it would be such a help.

Delay in New Jersey Lindy Trial Certain

International News Service

New York, Oct. 6—Bruno Richard Hauptmann cannot be properly brought to trial in New Jersey on the charges of kidnaping and murder of the Lindbergh baby, Wilentz and Foley announced today.

Wilentz said he expected that the Hunterdon County (N. J.) grand jury, which will convene Monday to consider the Lindbergh case, will complete its business in a single day.

Indications are that this jury will indict Hauptmann for kidnaping and murder. The 35-year-old former German machine gunner is under indictment in Bronx County (N. Y.) for extortion. In Hauptmann's garage and home $14,590 of the $50,000 Lindbergh ransom payment was found.

SEEK MORE WITNESSES

Wilentz said there positively would be no indictment returned against "Jane Doe," indicating that the New Jersey authorities do not believe a woman is involved in the crime.

The attorney-general said the list of witnesses who would appear before the Hunterdon County grand jury Monday is not complete.

2 MOTHERS IN RACE FOR HUGE BIRTH PRIZE

By FRANK CHAMBERLAIN

International News Service Special Correspondent

Toronto, Oct. 6—Refusing to relinquish her position as pace-setter in the Charles Millar, half-million-dollar "stork marathon," Mrs. Grace Bagnato, 41-year-old Toronto court interpreter and mother of 22 children, today scorned the suggestion that she give the lead to Mrs. Matthew Kenny, who looms as a "dark horse" in the maternity contest.

Mrs. Bagnato is adamant in her claim to have given birth to the greatest number of children in Toronto—eight—since the death in 1926 of the eccentric millionaire. Her sister, Mrs. Mary Morrel, of Scranton, Pa., also has 22 children.

HITS AT THREE "ENTRIES"

Mrs. Bagnato alleges that not all of Mrs. Kenny's children were born in Toronto. Lillie Kenny, who was born in 1926, came into the world on February 22 does not qualify for the Millar gold, she contends.

At least three of the children entered in the marathon by Mrs. Kenny have not been registered at the vital statistics bureau and cannot be included in the sweepstakes, Mrs. Bagnato says.

A check up today revealed that Mrs. Bagnato's claim is accurate; Mrs. Kenny actually has only seven children registered at the Parliament buildings, and would have to contest the Charles Millar will if the other three children she claims to have had since 1926 are to be included among her entries.

The twins, which medical authorities have assured Mr. Kenny, will come into the world in about five or six weeks, will arrive approximately the same week as Mrs. Bagnato's ninth child since 1926, placing Mrs. Kenny and Mrs. Bagnato in neck-and -neck positions.

TWIN RACE NOW

While medical men today declared that twins generally come in bunches—Mrs. Kenny has already had three sets of twins—and was considered by obstetrical experts a more likely winner than Mrs. Bagnato—the Italian-Canadian woman who has been a familiar figure in Toronto court's for 22 years, rose from a sickbed today to state emphatically that she was "still in the running."

"I have had eight children registered at the Parliament buildings since Oct. 1, 1926," she said.

"Mrs. Kenny has had only seven."

"But," she was reminded, "Mrs. Kenny says she is to give birth to twins very shortly."

Mrs. Bagnato smiled a knowing smile.

If I had a butler I'd call him Giles. My choice for the last of the aristocrats is Frank Crowninshield. Ray Bolger and Fred Astaire, double starred, would be my idea for a dance play. Anything whose name I don't know is a "hoot nanny." Nothing so boring as being dragged through a new home.

Anyone playing a harmonica or accordion excites my envy. I would rather have written Maugham's "Of Human Bondage" than any novel of my time. Next to that, "Maurice Gest." No European country suggests security like Holland. Or is any meal so stimulating as breakfasting in the snow at St. Moritz.

Aren't there audiences any more for quartettes such as the Avon Comedy Four, etc., etc., or am I just an old fogey? They are over-exploiting Shirley Temple, and it's a pity. Titled Clans Upset on Two Continents as Vanderbilt Climax Nears

Lady Furness Sails 'To Stop All This Nonsense About Mrs. Vanderbilt'

By International News Service

Southampton, Eng., Oct. 6—Firmly determined to "stop all this nonsense," Lady Furness, twin sister of Mrs. Reginald Vanderbilt, sailed for New York aboard the liner Empress of Britain today.

She was alluding to charges made against Mrs. Vanderbilt and some of her titled European friends in the New York hearing in which Mrs. Vanderbilt is attempting to gain custody of her 10-year-old daughter, Gloria. Lady Furness said, her eyes flashing:

"I am going over to see whether I can help my sister in any way.

"She certainly needs me at a time like this. I shall testify in her behalf if asked to and will do everything possible for her."

Lady Furness, a stylish figure in a black fur coat and a black hat, occupied a lavish suite on "C" deck.

The departure of Lady Furness for New York marked the beginning of a "gathering of the clan" in Mrs. Vanderbilt's behalf.

Prince Gottfried Hohenlohe-Langenburg, German nobleman, who was named at the court hearing, has announced his intention of sailing Tuesday to clear his own name and that of Mrs. Vanderbilt.

Week-End Recess in Gloria's Trial Gives Time to Overseas Coharts

By Universal Service

New York, Oct. 6—Lawyers and witnesses in the Vanderbilt-Whitney fight over the custody of the 10-year-old heiress gained a week-end recess in which to bolster their defense for the Supreme court battle before Judge Carew.

Meanwhile, word reached here from London, England, that the delay will offer a welcome interlude to aristocratic relatives and friends across the seas to gain time in their plans to join the cause here of Mrs. Gloria Morgan Vanderbilt.

Among those speeding to the aid of Mrs. Vanderbilt were her sister, Lady Furness, her brother, Harry Heys Morgan, Jr., and an attorney representing the Marchioness of Milford Haven.

The marchioness' name was brought into the case by Mlle. Marin Caillot, formerly Mrs. Vanderbilt's maid, who testified as to the incident she said she saw in a hotel.

The Empress of Britain, it was learned today, will carry the legal representative of the Marchioness of Milford Haven.

His mission will be to protect their reputations against further assault and, if necessary, to bring his clients here to refute "defamatory" testimony.

Resumption of the fight over custody of little Gloria was postponed until Monday.

Monday's first witness will be Dr. Stuart L. Craig, physician called to attend Gloria on September 21, when, he says, the child was "spirited away" by her nurse to the home of her aunt, Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney.

Dr. Craig has made affidavit to the effect that to remove Gloria to her mother "may endanger her well-being." The affidavit further states:

"On Friday, September 21, 1934, I was called to attend the infant at the home of Mrs. Whitney.

Aligned with Mrs. Whitney, who seeks custody of Gloria on the ground that Mrs. Vanderbilt is an unfit guardian, is Mrs. Vanderbilt's mother, Mrs. Laura Kilpatrick Morgan, who may be called next week.

She is the only one of the Morgan family siding with the Whitney's. Mrs. Benjamin Thaw, Mrs. Vanderbilt's other sister, has been at her side in court each day.

'Listening to Servants Gossip! What Are We Coming to?'

By Universal Service

Chicago, Oct. 6—Marquis Henri De La Falaise De La Coudraye, husband of the moving picture actress, Constance Bennett, passed through here enroute to a mountain resort near Hollywood, where he will be under the care of physicians for the next few weeks.

His wife peaked him by plane to make arrangements for his arrival. The couple are returning from a European visit. The Marquis suffered an attack of fever while in Indo-China and has not fully recuperated.

Miss Bennett, named in the Vanderbilt trial in New York as a friend of Mrs. Gloria Morgan Vanderbilt, said:

"I don't know about the trial, but all the awful things that were said are not true to my knowledge. It's just a lot of filth."

The marquis observed:

"I don't know what we're coming to when we listen to a lot of servants' gossip."

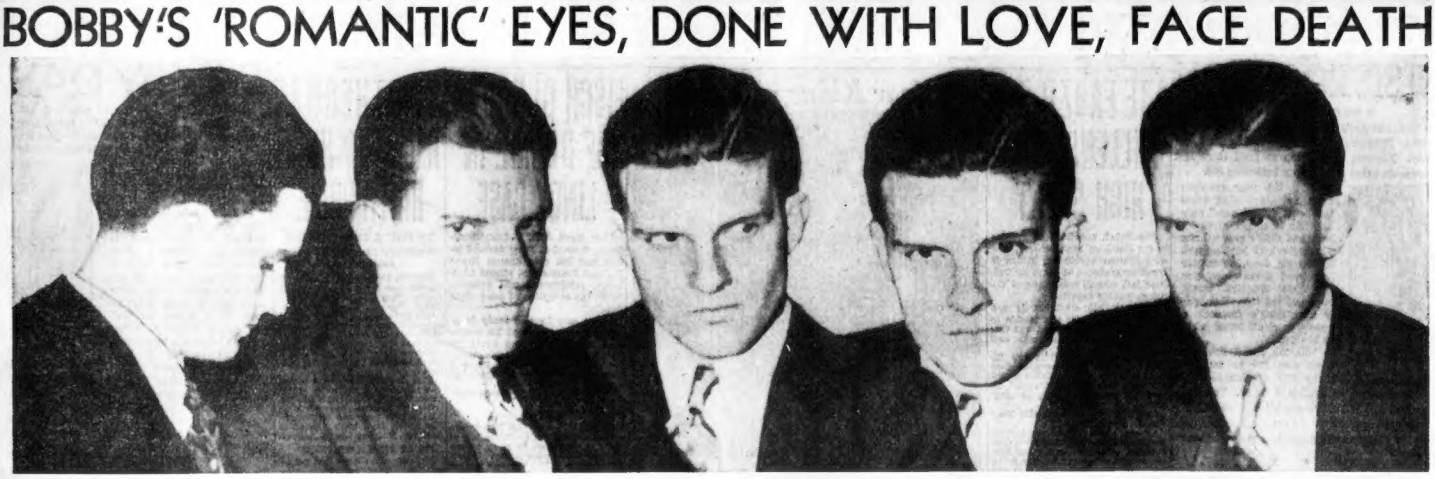
BOBBY'S 'ROMANTIC' EYES, DONE WITH LOVE, FACE DEATH



GUILTY OF MURDER. The handsome features and soulful dark eyes of young "Bobby" Edwards, real life "American Tragedy" character, won him the love of two girls but failed to win a sympathetic verdict from a jury of Pennsylvania mining town citizens. Cameramen caught Edwards in the above poses as he sat, day after day, in a Wilkes-Barre, Pa., courtroom, hearing himself flayed by prosecution counsel as a heartless philanderer, a moral coward, and a stony-hearted killer. He stands convicted of having clubbed one sweetheart to death in order that he might be free to marry another and newer inamorata. (Pictures from International News Photograph Service.)

'TRAGEDY' KILLER DOOMED TO CHAIR BY JURY

By DAVID P. SENTNER
International News Service Staff Correspondent

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., Oct. 6—Forsaken by his parents and counsel, handsome young Bobby Edwards sat alone in a dreary courtroom today and heard a jury render his doom for the "American Tragedy" murder of Freda McKechnie, expectant mother.

It was 8:19 a. m. and the rain beat a tom-tom of death on the windows as the 12 jurors plodded to their places after a long night of deliberation, interrupted by a brief sleep.

The courtroom, arena during the week for a sensation-hungry milling crowd, was virtually empty.

The verdict read:

"We find the defendant Robert Allan Edwards guilty of first degree murder and recommend the death penalty."

Bobby, the stone boy, the poker-faced one, sat immobile.

He had gone to his prison cot early last night while the whole town stayed awake waiting for the result of the jury's deliberations. He had slept as peacefully as a child until they awakened him to take him to court.

He might just as well have been asleep as far as outward reaction was concerned.

Bobby's parents were not present. They had testified briefly for their son during the trial. But Bobby was a courtroom orphan today.

His chief counsel, Frank A. McGuigan, was not present, nor were the latter's assistants, Frank A. McGuigan Jr., associated with the defense, sat besides Edwards.

Young McGuigan did his best to offer condolences. Edwards replied icily:

"I'm very well, thank you."

But Bobby is now a human package definitely marked for the electric chair.

EDWARDS TO APPEAL

An hour after the verdict was brought in, Judge Valentine announced that defense counsel had notified him that an appeal would be filed.

Formal notice must be filed within four days. This will act as a stay of sentence, the court explained.

The appeal will be argued during the week of October 29, and it may be mid-November before the case is finally disposed of in the Luzerne county court.

Court officials pointed out that Edwards has a chance of escaping the death penalty should Warden William Mealey recommend mental examination of the prisoner. Healey has given no hint, however, that he will do so.

Two doomed men have been saved in recent years through this procedure.

JURY DISCUSSES LOVE

District Attorney Thomas M. Lewis, commenting on the verdict, said:

"It is a proper verdict. Justice has prevailed."

Love of death were discussed in the jury room before the twelve men wrote their message of doom and sealed it in an envelope. After Court Clerk Charles Henderson had read it, the foreman recorded it verbally and each of the other jurors was polled.

It was on July 30, that the black-haired defendant took Freda for her last auto ride. They had been childhood sweethearts, in the little mining town of Edwardsville. Bobby was a mine surveyor, a Sunday school worker, the beau brummel of his class and enjoyed a reputation for having a way with the ladies.

Freda was a telephone operator.

OTHER GIRL ENTERS

The houses of the McKechnie family and the Edwards family adjoined each other. The elder Edwards, paymaster in the Kingston Coal Company, was a lifelong friend of Freda's father, employed as a mine boss by the same company. The McKechnies and the Edwardses even went to the same church.

When Bobby went away to college at Mansfield, Pa., he met a young music student, Margaret Crain. His romance with Freda began to dwindle away and Margaret visited his home in vacation time.

Freda told Bobby a few days before her death that she was to become a mother. Bobby outwardly changed his plans to marry Margaret and promised to do "the honorable thing." He told Freda they would be wed the next week.

On the ill-fated July 30 Bobby took Freda for a midnight swim in Harvey's Lake. Paralleling events in the famous "American Tragedy" her body was found the next day.

There was a terrible gash in the back of her head. Her clothes were found under a tree on shore. Bobby was arrested. He told five different stories, signing the last two versions of the tragedy in the form of statements.

HIS FIVE STORIES

Here were the stories:

1—Freda knocked her head against a deck.

2—Freda disappeared in the water.

3—He accidentally hit her jaw while swimming and later she drowned while swimming.

4—(On which he based his defense)—Freda was stepping into a rowboat from the dock when she fainted. He could not revive her. As father of her unborn baby, Bobby feared he would be blamed for her death. So he took his father's blackjack from the car on the beach and returned, striking her on the head in order to make her death look like an accident.

5—(On which the state based its case)—Freda stood in the way of his marriage to Margaret Crain, "the other girl." He had played with the idea of getting rid of Freda "in order to clear up the situation." On the night of their last auto-ride, he decided "now was the time to do it."

HIS WAKEFUL NIGHT

On the way home that night, Bobby bought his mother two chocolate bars. Both his parents, on the witness stand, admitted he was unable to sleep that night.

The motive for the slaying of Freda was established by the prosecution in the five-day trial through the introduction of his fervid, erotic love letters to Margaret Crain. Many of them were unprintable. Those that were contained outbursts of adolescent passion and declarations of eternal love for "Monet," the term of endearment with which he addressed Margaret. Bobby signed himself "Buddy."

Frequently he referred to Margaret as his wife and to himself as her husband.

This girl, Freda McKechnie, was the handsome "Bobby" Edwards' first love. She was found dead in a lake with a blackjack wound on the back of her head.

COMMON DEATH VICTIM ROBBED

Possibility that the man whose body was found on Boston Common today may have died elsewhere and his body carried to the Common was intimated late today by Medical Examiner William J. Brickley, who announced he was not satisfied that the man died where he was found. Such a theory, it was admitted, would seriously involve other persons.

A ghoulish robbery of a well-dressed corpse on Boston Common was revealed today with the finding of the body near Parkman bandstand.

The robber turned out all pockets in the clothing and even exchanged shoes with the dead man while early pedestrians hurried through the rain a short distance away on their way to work. He had covered the face with the dead man's raincoat.

Associate Medical Examiner William J. Brickley said the body appeared to be that of "a college fellow or a well-groomed man from somewhere outside the city."

No outward marks of violence were found. Dr. Brickley believed death was due to natural causes.

The medical examiner described the man as one of about 34 years, 5 feet 9 inches tall and weighing 117 pounds. He had brown, curly hair, bald near the temples, hazel eyes, sound teeth, but irregular in front and many of them filled with expensive dental work. Legs and arms were suntanned, showing the outline of a bathing suit.

This girl, Margaret Crain, East Aurora, N. Y., music teacher, was young Edwards' new love, the object of a passion which he expressed in "purple" letters so fervid and erotic that many of their passages could not be made public. Edwards took his old sweetheart's life, a jury found, in order to be free to marry Margaret, his "Blessed Damozel." (Pictures from International News Photograph Service.)

Baby Is One of Two Killed in Crashes

Automobile accidents on rain soaked roads in this city today caused the deaths of two persons and injury to several others.

A three-year-old child was killed and five other persons were injured when two automobiles skidded and crashed into each other on Bennington street, East Boston.

A 55-year-old city employe was killed at West Canton street and Shawmut avenue, South End, when two trucks collided. Two other men were injured.

DEAD

ROBERT CORTRELL, 3, of 10 Surfside road, Lynn.

JOSEPH W. EATON, 55, of 56 Compton street, South End.

INJURED

MRS. GERTRUDE CORTRELL, 25, mother of the child.

HARRY CORTRELL, 27, father.

HERBERT PRESS, 44, of 14 Surfside road, Lynn.

HARRY PRESS, 19, son of Herbert.

WILLIAM W. LISTON, 30, Crescent avenue, Revere.

Raymond Burnett, 8 Lamont street, Roxbury.

James Carson, Vernon street, Roxbury.

All of the injured in the East Boston crash were treated at East Boston Relief Hospital.

The impact of the crash hurled the child against the windshield of the Cortrell car.

A door of the Cortrell car was thrown 50 feet away from the point of the collision. A wheel of the machine driven by Liston was found 25 feet away.

Cortrell was driving his car. His wife and child were in the front seat with him. Press and his son were in the rear seat.

When both machines tried to make the curve in front of 1229 Bennington street, they skidded. The rear ends collided. The sound of the crash brought nearby residents rushing to the scene.

DANCER HELD IN STAB DEATH

By Associated Press

Montreal, Oct. 6—Police announced today that Dolores Morel, pretty Spanish dancer, had told them she stabbed William Owen, bond clerk, early today, as he choked her in a drunken rage in her apartment. Owen died of a knife wound.

Senorita Morel, who was taken into custody a few hours after the incident, was quoted by police as saying she had grabbed a knife and struck in self-defense.

Senorita Morel, a striking woman of 25, with red hair, had been employed in an East End night club under the name of Dolores Lopez.

Owen, an Englishman, was found bleeding to death in Miss Morel's apartment by a physician, Dr. J. R. Hamelin, who had been called by the woman. Senorita Morel disappeared from the apartment while the doctor ministered to the dying man.

Apparently, she drove away in Owen's automobile, for police found it wrecked against a telephone pole in Longueuil, a suburb. In the car was bloodstained knife, a pair of woman's shoes, and a purse.

MULLONEY TO AID N. Y. PROBE

By Universal Service

New York, Oct. 6—Daniel C. Mulloney, convicted Boston banker, will testify here Monday in the Federal grand jury investigation of former Mayor Walker's income tax payments, it was learned today.

Mulloney is to be sentenced October 15 for misappropriating $131,000 belonging to the Federal National Bank, Boston, of which he formerly was president.

A subpoena was served on him in Boston on Thursday. He will come under escort of a deputy marshal.

Mulloney was examined before the grand jury here a year ago about an account Walker was reported to have had in his bank.

Maine Yule Tree Embargo Ordered

Augusta, Me., Oct. 6 (AP)—From northern and northeastern sections of Maine only can Christmas trees be shipped this year without restriction.

E. L. Newdick, division chief of the State Department of Agriculture, today explained recently issued federal restrictions in a gypsy moth quarantine order. Maine has been divided into three areas, the infested, the slightly infested and the insect free.

'Short Waves' Demonstrated

Short wave broadcasting and receiving is being demonstrated today at the Brookline avenue and Cambridges stores of Sears, Roebuck and Co.

A feature of the demonstration was to be the carrying on of a conversation with pilot and passengers of an airplane flying over the city.

The short wave broadcast, itself, will be from the Sears store on Brookline avenue, with a special amplifying apparatus set up outdoors.

Reception methods will be shown at the Sears store on Massachusetts avenue, Cambridge. Technical questions will be answered by a staff of experts.

Code Officials Order Shoe Probe

Shoe union officials today announced that they had received word from Colonel Harry S. Berry, deputy administrator of the shoe code, that he would send investigators to Lynn Monday to investigate complaints of price-cutting and resultant wage reductions in the shoe industry.

Officials of the Brockton Brotherhood of Shoe and Allied Craftsmen and the United Shoe and Leather Workers' Union said they had been advised the investigators would confer with representatives of their unions.

RED PLOT BARED ON U. S. SHIPS

By Associated Press

Los Angeles, Oct. 6—The Times says "flagrant cases" of Communistic activity intended to end to "rebellion" have been discovered on United States warships in San Pedro harbor.

The alleged rebellion plot, the newspapers says, was carried on by sending attractive young Communist girls aboard ships on visiting days to make dates with the sailors and spread sedition.

"Communists are drilling in uniform every Sunday in Tujunga Canyon on leased land," the Times story says. "The uniform is blue with a blue overseas cap and a scarlet sickle and hammer over the left breast. As they are not armed, they are not breaking the law.

"There is in Los Angeles a college for training Communist agitators. The courses include street riots, propaganda work in colleges, propaganda in the army, navy and national guard and propaganda in government relief camps."

She was a Republican appointee, and by the way, her husband's family are Democrats. Those that read Reno and Paris news will agree a girl without fortune who will make a good wife is a better bargain than a rich girl that may do the other thing.

The Duke of Normandy, father of William the Conqueror, found it so and the late E. H. Harriman would have approved of his grandson's marriage, if he could have seen the intelligent, beautiful blue-eyed Celtic girl destined to perpetuate his family name.

Various pieces of property, hitherto tax exempt, worth more than $55,000,000, have been put back on the tax rolls by New York city's government. Properties deprived of tax and assessment exemption include the Salvation Army in the Bowery, the Knights of Columbus Hotel, The William Sloan House of the Y. M. C. A. and Baker Athletic Field of Columbia University.

Temple Beth-El, Fifth avenue and 76th street, the largest, finest synagogue in New York, has been taken from the tax free list on the ground that it has not been devoted entirely to religious purposes.

A hospital that charges $12 a day for a room, also is put on the taxpaying list. All these properties are expected to contest the attempt to make them pay taxes and assessments.

An announcement, important to California and more important to Florida, that is made by Joseph Schenck, of the moving picture industry. He says that with Upton Sinclair running for governor, Florida might well take from California its one hundred and fifty millions dollar a year moving picture industry, if Florida would give satisfactory pledges as to taxation.

Almost any pledge might be considered satisfactory in view of what Mr. Sinclair plans to do, "End poverty in California."

It is suggested seriously, aside from Mr. Schenck's proposal, that at least half the California's moving picture industry will move to Florida.

And that state, with plenty of sunshine, and real estate for sale, expecting this winter the best season it has ever had since the big collapse, will welcome this California news.

Mr. Sinclair will find, to his surprise, that it is easier to frighten away capital and drive out industry and its jobs, than it is to "end poverty in California" or elsewhere.

One hundred thousand Japanese are said to be in need following the typhoon that killed many and destroyed $100,000,000 worth of property. The Russian Red Cross has given 100,000 yen to sufferers, twice the amount given by the Emperor of Manchukuo, and Russian generosity may help to smooth over a good deal of international ill-feeling.

OLD RADCLIFFE ELMS SHELTER NEW STUDENT GENERATION

The daughters, just entering the college, are Benira Holland and Ann Bartlett, both of Cambridge. The Radcliffe elms have shed their leaves and budded again a great many times since those other girls, now freshman, themselves, enjoying the October sun and wondering what life would bring to them. Lights and Shadows

By George Holland

Monday will be a blank date as far as theatrical openings are concerned, although originally a new drama and the new musical play "America Sings," were both scheduled to have first nights. "America Sings," with Allan Jones, Jules Bledsoe, McIntyre and Heath, Lee Sims and Ilomay Bailey in the cast, is slated now for a Tuesday world premiere at the Shubert. What will happen to the drama named "Blaze of Glory," the new play that was to open at the Wilbur, your deponent does not, at this writing, know. It played one performance in Springfield, and word was sent to this corner that its Boston premiere had been postponed until October 22. I doubt that it will. The gossip is that "Blaze of Glory" had manuscript trouble and "angel" trouble, all at once.

* * *

"America Sings," based on the life of the famous poet-composer, Stephen Foster, appeals to me on paper as one of the most interesting stage ventures of the season. Foster's three great folk-songs, "Oh, Suzanna," "Old Folks at Home" (Swanne River), and "Ol' Black Joe," all have places in the score. The staging of these world-famous American songs should prove no less than thrilling.

* * *

It isn't very respectful to the captains of finance, but Reuben Bernstein, manager of "Roberta" amused a fellow-victim greatly last night, when, after dropping two futile nickels in the irritating contraption misnamed a telephone at the Colonial theater, he finally aroused an operator and expostulated. "What is this, a bank?"

* * *

George M. Cohan in "Ah, Wilderness!" has assumed his proportions at the Plymouth Theater. The Thursday matinee sold out and standing room only was the cry last night. It is strange about Boston. Shows with great reputations in New York—merited reputations, too—often play three or four performances here to moderate business before attaining capacity. "Roberta," a smashing success at the Colonial, played nearly a full week before Boston seemed ready to accept the Jerome Kern-Otto Harbach musical show, as a real favorite. "Of Thee I Sing," that startling musical novelty of a few seasons ago, went four or five performances before the lines formed in front of the box-office. "As Thousands Cheer," which makes way at the Shubert after four tremendous weeks for "America Sings," was an exception. The revue sold out on Wednesday of its first week.

WILLIAM POWELL TO MAKE TEN FILMS NEXT YEAR FOR VARIOUS STUDIOS

Screen Favorite to Feature in 'Star at Midnight' for RKO Release

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS

Motion Picture Editor Universal Service

(Copyright, 1934, by Universal Service.)

Los Angeles, Oct. 6—Actually counting, William Powell has ten pictures to make next year. I don't know how he is going to do it. Neither does he but he has one of those contracts that permits him to roam from studio to studio and Bill is willing to work night and day when there is a job he has to finish. So he will probably do them all and do them well. He owes RKO a picture and "Star at Midnight" by Arthur Somers Roche has been selected.

Sounds sort of William Powell-ish. It's the story of a man about town who falls in love with an actress and then sets out to free her from a crime of which she is accused. You know one of Bill's sleuthing jobs.

Somebody pays the high-powered sports editors. Their day has come. They are going to see themselves as others see them.

Louella O. Parsons

Warners are to make "Sport Page," a "filium" about the boys who tell us how football should be played and what is wrong with the boxing game. It's an original by George Bicker and unless Edward G. Robinson gets cold feet, he will play the lead.

* * *

Honest, this is the truth! Spencer Tracy is going to play the lead in Dante's Inferno. Seems Sol Wurtzel has gone literary and plans to film the classic we all read in our high school days. There will be Claire Trevor, Alice Faye and Henry Walthall as Spencer's partners. The picture gets under way the 12th of November.

A Line or Two

Seems I did Peggy Fears wrong. I heard she was flying to New York when she is really working hard in "Lottery Lover" at the Fox Studio. Sorry Peggy! Just heard that Ruth Etting's golden voice will be heard in another series of short reelers. B. B. Kahane signed her to do her warbling again for RKO. Also heard that Columbia is trying to borrow Baby Leroy for "Caravan." Hollywood's only person, male or female, who doesn't want to be thin, Archie Mayo, directs Al Jolson and Ruby Keeler in "Casino de Paree."

* * *

Hollywood will be a little gayer because Rudy Vallee is bringing one of the stage's favorite clowns to our town with him. Lou Holtz, a funny off the stage as on, and you cannot band that bouquet to many comedians. Lou went West with Rudy. They both arrive next week. Al Green director of Rudy's next picture, "Sweet Music," will meet the boys in Denver. They will all travel back to Hollywood together and discuss the story enroute.

Geraldine Farrar's former heartbeat and one-time idol of millions of women, Lou Tellegen, is on the Columbia lot. He won't make any femme hearts beat faster this time, for he plays a gray-haired, stubbly bearded soldier in "Call to Arms." And that reminds me that Ben Lyon and Esther Ralston and Willard Mack are getting a great lineup for this number which is being filmed mostly at Sawtelle, the old soldiers' home; Billy Bakewell, Hobart Bosworth, Claude Gillingwater, Noah Berry and Ben Taggerty Kemp. My compliments to Harry Cohn for putting some of the old-timers back to work. Now if they would only give Helene Chadwick a break!

Snapshots of Hollywood

BETTY LAWFORD is off for New York; no chance of a reconciliation with her husband, MONTE BELL. She will try for a stage job. Here's a blow for MAX BAER'S feminine admirers; he is bringing his Mama here to live with him and she keeps a watchful eye on Max's romances; Real estate agents are parking on JAY PALEY'S doorstep; word has gone around that he wants to buy five acres in the Hollywood Hills for a home; he is the new president of the WALTER WANGER CORPORATION; MARION DAVIES' pals would like to know if it's true she is sending 11 dogs to Hollywood and a new wife for Gandhi, her famous dachshund; CHARLES RUGGLES flying East to his wife who is seriously ill in New York; The four MARX BROTHERS furnished comedy enough at the Beverly Derby to make them eligible for floor entertainers any time they want the job; THYRA SAMTER WINSLOW, one of the very nicest people I know, over at Columbia Studios, writin' pieces and can THYRA do it? That's all today. See you Monday.

Two New Films at Loew's State

By ANN AMES

When Michael Arlen wrote "The Green Hat," he provided the world with a best-seller, and created a glamorous and gallant role that ladies of the movies seemingly find irresistible.

Iris March came back to the screen at Loew's State yesterday, where Constance Bennett sins and suffers in "Outcast Lady" as the reckless girl who was misunderstood and maligned throughout her short and merry life. There is undoubtedly a charm to the story of the young woman whose bravery dragged her into a mad whirl of gayety to forget that the man she had married, who had killed himself on his wedding night, had been far less than the stainless knight his friends believed him to be.

The blonde Constance does what she can in a role that Garbo once played, which ought to be but apparently isn't enough to discourage almost anyone. Herbert Marshall wears the appropriate stiff upper lip of the traditional Oconian, and splendid support is given by Hugh Williams as the hero-worshipping young brother, Elizabeth Allan and by Mrs. Patrick Campbell who unfortunately appears but briefly.

* * *

The companion picture, fresher in theme and delightfully presented and acted, is appropriately called "Have a Heart." With far less prestige as to authorship and stars it proves a fine, friendly and amusing picture.

Jean Parker, a youngster with all the charm and none of the cloying sweetness of some sisters among screen ingenues, has the role of Sally, who as the result of a frightful accident is doomed to wear an ugly orthopedic shoe. She's a sweet and pretty girl framed in a window in Jimmy Dunn, happy-go-lucky vendor of "Have-A-Heart" ice cream sticks. Their romance is added and abetted by Joan and Gus, played with charm and comedy by Una Merkel and the irrepressible Stuart Erwin.

While the ending is of the traditional, Pollyanna school, there's a perfect light touch reminiscent of Robert Nathan's "One More Spring," about it—a skillfully acted tale that places it far above what it starts out to be.

Ted Lewis Revue Stars on Met Stage as 'Madame Du Barry' Proves Screen Treat

By JOYCE DANA

The hoydenish and favorite playmate of Louis XV of France comes to the screen at the Metropolitan, where Dolores Del Rio has the role of the notoriously naughty "Madame Du Barry."

The exotic Dolores has to share the spotlight with Ted Lewis, who puts on the biggest and best stage show the Met has offered in weeks, which if you've followed the big names billed, puts that clever showman in a class by himself.

This newest film version of the roguish royalty provides Miss Del Rio with the billing and the title role, a sumptuous wardrobe, a handsome production directed with consummate good taste by William Dieterle, and plenty of opportunity to show just how alluring a royal mistress may be.

As lovely as she is, the four stars for a grand performance must be awarded to Reginald Owen as Louis, the most picturesque part of his screen career.

The story is mostly confined to Louis' amorous moments, which provide enough excitement for a couple of reigns and more than one entertaining film. Plenty was added to the gayety of both by the saucy little minx who demanded a sleigh ride in midsummer (and got it) and the one who was presented at court in her nightie. Louis' imperturbable good nature was rewarded by her loyalty and affection, and he dies in her arms, to leave the destiny of France in the dull-witted youth who became the 16th Louis, with Marie Antoinette for his queen.

The fat and stupid Dauphin's education in the glittering court of Versailles, where scantily clad dancing girls tried to woo him away from his purely mechanical interests, provide still more lavish and amusing sequences. The only serious note in this merry film is when the weak-willed successor to the throne sends his grandfather's favorite mistress packing off to prison. Even then the Du Barry departs with the same nonchalance and courage which had marked her happier days.

Excellent support is contributed by Victor Jory, Osgood Perkins, Verree Teasdale, Anita Louise and Maynard Holmes. It all sophisticated and delightful gaiety that happily escaped the rigors of censorship.

* * *

The stage presentation has never been in better hands than it is this week, with Ted Lewis once more demonstrating that he still holds first place in the art of showmanship. From the moment a smart tap routine opens the act to the irresistible rhythms of "When My Baby Smiles," there's plenty of action and perfectly grand entertainment. Ted knows his values like nobody else, and builds up through a show that offers diverting comedy provided by Eddie Chester in a song and dance specialty, melodic harmonies by the Three Royce Sisters, now perfectly gorgeous girls (he can pick 'em!), Lois Sterner and Mildred Gaye, clever dancing by Carroll and Shalito, to probably one of the most skillful impersonations back of the footlights, that of Shavo Sherman as Jimmy Durante, and such grand comedians as Teddy and Paul, the ebony imps whose clowning is the high art of footlight entertainment. Best of all is a reprise of the Ted Lewis songs, concluding with the "Peanut Vendor" and numbers of pounds of peanuts to down front patrons to that same "Goodnight" that signs off many of the nation's radio programs.

Late Columbo Stars at Boston

By HARRIS MORGAN

Ranny Weeks, Boston's favorite baton wielder and songster, heads another lively vaudeville bill at the Keith-Boston, where the screen attraction brings the late Russ Columbo in "Wake Up and Dream."

"Wake Up and Dream" is filled with good songs, the excellent voices of Russ Columbo, and the Misses Knight and Shaw, light enough to be amusing and sentimental enough to please everyone.

It's the story of a vaudeville trio, pursued by sheriffs and disgruntled landladies, with their only resources their courage and their baritone, Paul Scott. Paul is in love with his co-worker, Toby Brown, but steps gallantly aside in favor of his pal, Charlie Sullivan. Toby, in accordance with the best traditions of life's complexities, returns Paul's love, but she's piqued when Paul achieves Hollywood successes and a predatory brunette film star at the same time.

Everyone painfully self-sacrificing, until Charlie in a moment of inebriated insight, sets matters right. Still further complications are provided by the engaging Henry Armetta, who as Paul's foster father arrives on the scene from Italy, and thereafter runs away with the picture.

Russ Columbo was never in better voice; Roger Pryor is excellent as the rejected suitor; June Knight performs capably in a stereotyped role, and we do not hear enough from lovely Wini Shaw, who sings and plays the "other woman" charmingly.

Mary Kathryn Roan, talented and personable young singer has been held over for another week at the Boston. Boyce and Marsh add to the bill in a screamingly funny act, and in addition the Three Leslies, late of Earl Carroll's Vanities, presents a clever dancing and comedy turn. Mildred and Maurice, Morris and Vincent, the Five Gems and Dale Rhodes are others on the variety program.

BOOST IN WAGE IS FORECAST IN LABOR PEACE

By International News Service

San Francisco, Oct. 6—Various committees of the American Federation of Labor today wrestled with problems while the bulk of the delegates to the Federation's convention, taking advantage of an some of California's scenery or a football game.

The resolutions committee found itself at the conclusion of the first week of the conclave with more than 300 proposals to pass on so that the machinery of the convention can grind out rejections or approvals Monday.

Discussion centered on the speech of Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins, who said employers were guilty of bringing on most of the strikes in the past year through violations of Section 7-A, and that the government would protect and aid labor and capital alike.

She said that labor was entitled to shorter hours and higher wages, but employers are entitled to their profits. She also strongly embraced unemployment insurance and old age insurance.

Sol A. Rosenblatt, division administrator of several important NRA codes, told the convention that labor and capital must co-operate.

In addition he sounded the warning that the recovery administration "can not be threatened or coerced by that type of self-seeking Metropolitan group in industry, or of labor, whose fundamental purpose it is, principally from considerations political, to harass and destroy rather than to put his shoulder to the wheel in an effort to help and cooperate."

Miss Perkins said: "As profits increase, employers are bound to recognize that workers must receive increased wages and give worker working hours."

To newspapermen she said that she carried no messages from the President relative to his industrial "truce" proposal. She added that the "truce" was "nothing new." It only an appeal to use the New Deal adjustment machinery already set up.

SPREE FINISHES GRANT LOVE

By Universal Service

Hollywood, Cal., Oct. 6—Cary Grant, who was separated from his beautiful wife, Virginia Cherrill, last week did not swallow poison here in an attempt to end his troubles. And now Virginia says she is through with him forever.

Sheriff's officers, and afterwards the handsome film star himself denied the poison attempt, following an exciting few hours during the course of which Grant was rushed to a hospital and his stomach pumped out.

When Miss Cherrill, now living with her mother, heard that Grant had been rushed from his home in ambulance, she rushed to their home.

Later in the day Miss Cherrill said:

"This is the end. I have stood all of this that I am going to and will have nothing more to do with Cary."

Baseball Film On Orpheum Bill

The St. Louis Cards seem to be getting their share of the headlines these days, whether it's playing ball before 48,000 fans, or as the heroes of the new film, "Death on the Diamond," which is having its first Boston showings at Loew's Orpheum Theater.

Robert Young has the leading role in this exciting mystery comedy of a World Series contest, as one Larry, a sensational young pitcher from the bush leagues who joins the Cards in the midst of a streak of bad luck that is climaxed by a couple of murders.

Despite the earnest efforts of an aggressive young reporter of Pop Clark who will lose the club if he fails to win the pennant, and of pretty Frances, daughter of the owner and secretary of the club, there seems no solution to the series of mystifying crimes that have dogged the team. There are shootings and poisoned gloves and a neat bit of strangling in the training quarters, with the team becoming panicky, as they most certainly should have, on the eve of the big series.

Madge Evans is the pretty partner in romance, Ted Healy has his innings as the umpire, C. Henry Gordon is the saturnine gambler, Paul Kelly the quick witted news sleuth, and Nat Pendleton another of the demon ball players.

Headlining the stage show is Harry Howard with countless and comical stoogers including the Howard dog in "Born to be Laughed At." Milo, who imitates every bird and beast of the field and forest, was enthusiastically applauded for his novel efforts, and other favorites were Shepherd, Carlton and Pritchard in eccentric dances. Miss Shephard sings charmingly.

Notes Along the Line

Worcester, Oct. 8.

LUCREZIA BORI—

There were other events this evening—a Suite after English Folk Songs by Mason—tepid affair —Chaikovsky's Romeo and Juliet —thrice familiar but many time melodious—Johann Strauss' Kunstlerleben Waltz — played by Conductor Stoessel in a manner as Vienese as Der Berolliner — a choral group consisting of Bach's Heaven's The Heavens are Telling, two spirituals arranged by Nobis Cain and the Finale from Act II of Aida BUT—

LUCREZIA BORI —from this Borzia no poison

The evening was Lucrezia Bori's—

The eminent diva was in radiant voice—rested and fresh from a few weeks work at her Camp Eagle Ned, New York State—royal BORJIA blood—she sang here in the latter days of the Boston Opera Company as Flora, Butterfly, Mimi and the Manon of Puccini—lost her voice not long after her debut with the Metropolitan—made re-entry, voice more beautiful than ever six years later in Verdi's Violetta—Magda (La Boheme), Mimi, Manon, Salud, (La Vida Breve), Concepcion (L'Heure Espanole) Duchess of Towers in Peter Ibbetson (an assumption for which Deem Taylor has reason to thank her)—made possible the continuance of New York's Metropolitan opera through her intimate knowledge of the psychology of New York society—loves to drive an auto and fast—sings English songs but often misplaces her interest as in a group written by MORTIMER BROWNING, male teacher in Mrs. VLADIMIR SIMKHOVITCH'S famed Greenwich House—has magnificent jewels—her new dog, a miniature schnauzer called Rowdy II.—her Melisande made Boston forget the "inoubliable" Melisande of MARY GARDEN, one of the historical impersonations of all time—is one of the few really aristocratic divas,—sings in San Francisco and Los Angeles after a long concert tour and returns to the "Met" shortly after opening in December. Sang tonight The Vol ele zapite and Deh Vieni from Figaro's Wedding—the Gavotte from Manon—The Three Spanish songs (of which the Dos Cantares of Turina was a little classic) Cyril Scott's Lullaby, and Rimsky's The Rose Has Charmed the Nightingale — applause — tumultuous — encores — without number.

PASSING BY—

HAMILTON B. WOOD—presenting Albert Stoessel with a silver service or ten years as a conductor—although Mr. Stoessel's woodeny and uninspired conducting is all that keeps the Festival from being an artistic triumph instead of a delightful occasion, whatever his talents as an organizer and kind parent of the Juilliard School may be—and reading a telegram of congratulation from Franklin D. Roosevelt, congratulating the Worcester Festival Association.

MRS. ELIZABETH SPRAGUE COOLIDGE—unsuggestive and self effacing patron of music. Sartorial note—the later evenings are very brilliant—some by Patou, Molyneux, Bergdoff, Goodman—and Miss Bori's by Gabrielle Chanel.—the oriental quintet resting after their JOB last evening.

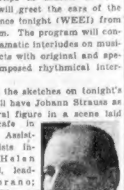
BRAVO

"Bravo will answer musical queries (except theory). Only questions of general interest can be answered by publication. All others must be accompanied by a self-addressed envelope and three cents in loose stamps).

ROMBERG WILL STAGE RADIO MUSICALE

Another premiere, starring Sigmund Romberg, foremost of living operetta and musical comedy composers, and presenting William Lyon Phelps as master of ceremonies, will greet the ears of the air audience tonight (WEEI) from 9 to 9:30 p. m. The program will consist of dramatic interludes on musical subjects with original and specially composed rhythmical interjections.

One of the sketches on tonight's airing will have Johann Strauss as the central figure in a scene laid in a cafe in Vienna. Assisting artists include Edna Marshall, leading soprano; Byron Warner, tenor; the International Quartet; a girl's trio, and a varying dramatic cast.



Underwood & Underwood Sigmund Romberg

Romberg, the headliner of the new series, has written the musical score for dozens of musical comedies and operettas. Outstanding successes are "Maytime," "Blossom Time," "Student Prince," "Desert Song," "New Moon" and "My Maryland."

• • •

For armchair listeners who like to rise and dance, we offer the sweetly, distinctive music of Guy Lombardo and his Royal Canadians, who commence broadcasting from the Starlight Roof of the Waldorf-Astoria this eve (WEEI) from 11 to 11:30 p. m. Lombardo's smooth legato tempo has made him an airwave favorite of thousands of earfloppers, as well as one of the most celebrated and most popular of all dance orchestras.

• • •

The National Barn Dance will present to the public for the first time tonight (WBZ-WBZA at 9:30) an unpublished poem by James Whitcomb Riley, beloved Hoosier poet, entitled "The Girl Who Sewed the Button On For Me." It will be sung by William O'Connor, tenor.

• • •

The Gierasdorf Sisters, famous harmonists of stage, screen and radio, will be featured on the South Seas hour (WNAC from 8:00 to 8:45) together with the veteran showman's new prologues — Joy Hodges, Alpha Deloro, Sue Read, Larry Taylor and John Evans.

The two musical satellites of Ted Weems will be called "Java Moon" and "Night Club." The latter presentation will be the radio maestro's first departure from the type of musical entertainment that he usually offers.

• • •

DIAL DOINGS

Grete Stueckgold, colorful concert and opera soloist, returns to other waves tonight (WNAC) at 9 o'clock with the music of Andre Kostelanetz's orchestra and Variety Singers. Miss Stueckgold alternates on a thrice-weekly series with Rosa Ponselle and Nino Martini.

For her initiated recital she will sing the lovely Strauss waltz-song, "Voices of Spring." "One Night of Love," from the film of the same title, and "They Didn't Believe Me," by Jerome Kern.

• • •

OLIVER C. ELLIOTT

Portrait will be that of Malcolm McCormack, who hates to get up in the morning—but does so to get you up.

Oliver C. Elliot . . . The silver in the "Silver Lining" program . . . Weekly over WEEI . . . Which is in the interest of the Boston Industrial Home . . . Which once gave Elliot a breakfast . . . One that was repaid in kind . . . By Elliot making good . . . And returning, to work ever after for the home.

Elliot was born in Watersdale . . . A country district in Hertfordshire . . . Which is in England . . . And he was educated at a private academy . . . In St. Albans, Herts . . . Coming to America as an immigrant . . . When he was 17 . . . And getting his first job . . . With a New York printer.

And then he moved to New Jersey . . . Where he was a reporter . . . And feature writer . . . For the Evening Journal . . . And came to Boston . . . And went Home . . . Which is inevitable for a newspaperman . . . Because he usually is broke anyway.

However . . . The Boston Industrial Home took him in . . . And indeed and fed and kept him . . . Giving him a new outlook upon life . . . And convincing him that home friendship was the . . . A thing he never has forgotten . . . For he was away on his new work only one year . . . As secretary of the Y. M. C. A. in Summit, N. J. . . . When he returned as assistant superintendent of the Home . . . That being in 1897 . . . And remained to be made superintendent . . . In 1903 . . . A job he has held since.

He is a stenographar . . . And a typist . . . And a pianist . . . And also a preacher . . . Among his many other accomplishments . . . And you can find him . . . On these afternoons . . . In front of a radio . . . Listening to the World Series broadcasts . . . And rooting for the National League . . . For his heart is with the Misters.

Wollaston Bus Hearing Granted

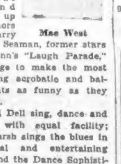
Because residents of Wollaston objected that a proposed bus line to run through Bromfield street would endanger children, Mayor Charles A. Ross, of Quincey, ordered a public hearin.

Mayor Ross had previously granted permission to the Eastern Massachusetts Street Railway company to open the line, following approval of the city council. He withdrew permission after protests pending the hearing.

Scollay Square Opens for Season

An excellent vaudeville bill, headlined by those stellar comedians, Collins and Peterson, together with the gorgeous and glamorous Mae West in "Belle of the Nineties," provided the opening program at the Scollay Square yesterday.

Newly decorated, equipped and furnished, the Scollay on its re-opening day returned to its old-time policy of coupling seven acts of top-notch vaudeville with the season's outstanding picture attractions.



Mae West

Collins and Peterson with their diverting and hilarious tomfoolery literally stopped the show, and runners up for honors were Harry and Frank Seaman, former stars of Ed Wynn's "Laugh Parade," who manage to make the most breathtaking acrobatic and balancing feats as funny as they are daring.

Cliff and Dell sing, dance and wisecrack with equal facility; Andrea Marsh sings the blues in an original and entertaining manner, and the Dance Sophisticates put on a miniature revue that is up to the best Broadway standards in singing, lighting and costuming. Keys, Schaeffer and Keys opened the bill with marimba and xylophone novelties, and the Robins Trio closed the big stage show.

"Belle of the Nineties" offers Mae West at her wittiest, in an exciting story of the lady who entertained at a notorious New Orleans gambling house and her love affair with the Tiger Kid.

Betty Plumer Is Maid of Honor

AT A LATE AFTERNOON ceremony today Miss Dorothy Plumer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Plumer of Newburyport, was married to Francis David Beard, son of Mrs. Howard Bush of New York.

The Rev. Daniel Bliss of Boston, assisted by the Rev. Lawrence Haywood, performed the ceremony, and Mr. Plumer gave his daughter away. The 4 o'clock ceremony in the Unitarian Church was followed by a reception in the home of the bride's parents.

Miss Betty Plumer of New York was the maid of honor and the bridesmaids were Mrs. F. Dennette Adams of Chestnut Hill, Mrs. William B. Plumer of Waban, Mrs. Charles Bartlett of Dedham and Mrs. Robert Patterson, Jr., of Dayton, O.

Serving Mr. Beard as best man was Mr. T. Bush of Hickman Mills, Mo., and on the usher staff were the Messrs. William B. Plumer, Leon M. Plumer, W. Bradlee Smith of Brookline, and Dr. F. Dennette Adams of Chestnut Hill.

The bride wore a gown of ivory satin with a gossamer veil of old family lace. Her mother was gowned in Burgundy velvet, with matching hat.

Miss Plumer was graduated from Choate Schol in 1924 and from Smith College in 1928. Mr. Beard is a graduate of Harvard. After November 1 they will be at home in New York City.

Miss Marston Weds in West Medford

Fall flowers in masses of greens decorated the West Medford Congregational Church where Miss Katherine Cushman Marston became the bride of Edwin Herbert McDowell of 98 Wolcott street, West Medford, this afternoon at 3.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. Lester Marston of 63 Dover street, West Medford, the bride was attended by her sister, Mrs. Edwin M. Scribner (Evelyn Bancroft Marston) of Newton whose own marriage was solemnized on June 29, as matron of honor; Miss Susan A. Sigler of Kansas City, Mo., a classmate at Bradford Junior College, as maid of honor; and the Misses Charlotte Terhune of Fairhaven, and Bradford Junior College, another classmate, Wilma G. Golding of Medford and Phyllis Marston of Braintree, a cousin, and Mrs. John Cunningham Willis (Deborah Hill) of Cambridge, as bridesmaids.

In Bridal Party

Robert Hedges White of West Medford and Torrington, Conn., was best man, the ushers being Robert A. McMillan, John E. Gilman and John W. Higgins, Jr., of Medford, Clarence R. Brooks of Springfield and Dr. Edwin M. Scribner, brother-in-law of the bride. The ceremony was read by the Rev. Henry Francis Smith.

White satin and Alencon lace were combined in the bride's gown, fashioned with inserts of lace from the shoulders to the waist in the back. The circular panel train was of lace, with satin at the short trains. With them they wore gold kid sandals and large berets to match their gowns. Deep rust was chosen for the matron of honor, a lighter shade of rust for the maid of honor and deep green for the bridesmaids. Their arm bouquets were of Tallaman roses.

Assisting the bridal party in receiving at the reception held in the church parlors were the bride's parents and Mr. and Mrs. Philip A. Jerguson. Mrs. Marston wore brown satin and crepe with touches of gold and had a corsage of Tallaman roses.

At Reception

Rolls of velvet adorned the neck and tightly buttoned sleeves of the attendants' gowns, the bodices were split in the back and the skirts were finished with short trains. With them they wore gold kid sandals and large berets to match their gowns. Deep rust was chosen for the matron of honor, a lighter shade of rust for the maid of honor and deep green for the bridesmaids. Their arm bouquets were of Tallaman roses.

MISS MADELYN PHILLIPS, above, who will be one of the models at the fashion show and tea which the Charlotte Cushman Club will conduct at the Barclay Club on next Tuesday afternoon.

Fashion Show to Attract Leaders

THE RESERVATIONS FOR the fashion show and tea which the Charlotte Cushman Club will give at the Barclay Club on Tuesday afternoon indicate that milady has taken a whole-hearted interest in fall fashions and also in the aims and accomplishments of the Cushman Club which is maintained for the use of the gentler sex of the stage who, as visitors to Boston, may dwell there under most wholesome conditions.

Among the many prominent people who have made reservations are Mrs. A. L. West Movius, Mrs. Ralph Adams Cram, Mrs. William A. Gaston, Mrs. Charles W. Bacon, Mrs. William H. Danforth, Mrs. Eugene Endicott, Mrs. Francis R. Hart, Mrs. H. B. Faxon, Mrs. Franklin M. Hobbs, Mrs. Adolf Leeds, Mrs. James H. Ritchie.

Additions to the long list of debutante models have been announced by Mrs. James Cunningham Gray, Jr., who is in charge of them, this group including the Misses Lucy Bradshaw, Dorothy Knowles, Kitty Talbot, Marjorie Saltonstall, Margaret Hallowell, Abigail Aldrich, Helen Bradshaw, Madelyn Phillips, Ann Fisher, Mary Bryant, Cora Peabody, Phoebe Keyes, King Woodward, Daphne Brooks and Lily Warren.

Baker Lecture Series Opens

The many subscriptions which have come in for the Judge Baker Guidance Center lecture course on "Formative Forces in the Child's Personality" have proved the great interest of parents in the topics to be discussed and in the authorities who will discuss them.

The lectures will take place at the Women's Republican Club on Friday mornings, beginning October 19. The committee sponsoring the lectures will have course tickets on public sale at the Judge Baker Guidance Center, 38 Beacon street beginning Monday.

Dr. Edward Sapir of Yale University, will give the lecture on October 19. His subject is "The Impact of Civilizations on Personality." Dr. Sapir gives a seminar at Yale on the subject, attended by students from 18 foreign countries.

Committee to Hold Series of Luncheons

A women's committee of one hundred is being organized by Mr. Frederick G. Hall of 260 Beacon street to work with the board of the People's Symphony Orchestra in enlightening the public as to the aims and needs of this worthy organization.

Mr. Hall and his niece, Miss Katherine M. Hall of Scituate, joined the board of the People's this season. Mrs. Charles Adams White of Revere street and Mrs. Gordon A. Petremont of Marlborough street are other new members of the board active on the women's committee.

Mrs. Arthur L. Hobson came down from her home in Little Boar's Head, N. H., especially for the first meeting on Thursday, and others offering suggestions for the best way to raise funds necessary to carry on this orchestra for the people were Miss Jean Dodd, Mrs. J. Pennington Gardiner, Mrs. Charles E. Monroe, Mrs. Arthur H. Davison, Mrs. Elizabeth Grant, Mrs. Edward Rose, Mrs. A. Julian Rowan, Mrs. Sally E. Lawrence, Mrs. Fabien Sevitzky, Mrs. E. W. Pigeon, Mrs. Robert J. Culbert.

Miss Muriel Ames, Mrs. Lewis Perry and Miss Edith Temple are on this committee which meets again with Fabien Sevitzky, conductor of the Peoples, on Thursday morning next.

Mrs. Grant has offered the use of her Marlborough street house for a series of symphony teas, with speakers discussing the symphony and outlining the aims of the People's.

Industrial Peace Is Needed, Dr. Kinsolving Says

By ARTHUR LEE KINSOLVING
(Rector of Trinity Church)

Kipling says:

"East is East, and West is West,
And never the twain shall meet."

Yet the East and the West coasts of our country have alike suffered the ravages and bitterness and loss of gigantic interlocking strikes.

The President has come before the country to plead for an industrial armistice, a "trial period of industrial peace."

Blessed are the peacemakers! Public opinion welcomes this fair and positive proposal. The mass of Americans are fundamentally peace loving, and lose patience with wearing and wasteful violence, however provoked.

Whether to reinforce the reasonableness of his demands, or else in gentle irony, so make us think, the President adds:

"I shall not ask employers or employes permanently to lay aside the weapons common to industrial war."

Must it forever be industrial war? Must capital and labor relentlessly conceive themselves irreconcilable foes? Is there so inevitable a conflict of interest that spindles must periodically be interrupted by bayonets, and employers preserve their property by machine guns? Are we never to discover a true mutuality of interest between those who sweat to plan industry in an intricate market, and those who sweat to ply the machines? Is anything more important than the human equation, and oiling the wheels of the day's work by a fair supply of good will?

I suggest that there exists in our industrial life a striking parallel to the international impasse to peace. So long as we think war we invite war. So long as we conceive foreign nationals as enemies, we invite war. And so soon as by a revolution of attitude we recognize our essential brotherhood and community of interest with peoples of other lands, we invite peace and pave the way for it.

So do we invite doom by persisting in our attitudes of distrust and enmity between capital and labor. If men in industrial nations persist in the refusal to recognize the essential fact of brotherhood, well, let us return to the relative humanity of the jungle, and escape the imminent judgment upon a violent civilization.

Every employer who brings himself to practice disinterested fairness becomes a peacemaker. Every laborer who resists the temptation to be regimented into an attitude of hatred and acts of hate-provoking reprisal is a peacemaker. And, as Jesus truly said, "Blessed are the peacemakers," for they alone can save us from an intolerable economic situation which threatens to become victory for none, misery for all.

Let us beware lest the last state of our industrial warfare resemble the final desolation of No Man's Land.

HOME TREATMENT GIVES YOUR SKIN THAT SALON-CARED-FOR LOOK

Given in Marriage

—By Adele Garrison—

Avis, under the watchful gaze of the conspirators, goes through the wedding rehearsals without mishap.

CHAPTER 159

THE REHEARSAL of the marriage processional was repeated nearly a half dozen times before Lillian, exacting mistress of ceremonies, declared herself satisfied with every detail. I wondered if there was not a slight trace of malice in Lillian's dictum that Avis Arlen's manner of proceeding down the room did not conform to those of the bride, the maid of honor and the other bridesmaid, and her insistence that Philip Veritzen's protege must rehearse the steps alone and with the others until the whole thing was in harmony.

"Dear Mrs. Dunderwood," Avis said plaintively at one point, "I really cannot see where I am walking in the wrong manner. I always have been taught that I must poise my body in——"

"Oh, we're perfectly aware, Avis," Lillian retorted, "that everybody's out of step but you, but, nevertheless, you'll have to change your manner of proceeding to this altar. It's easier to change you over than it would be to get all the others twisted around, especially as the way they're doing things happens to appeal to my alleged artistic instincts. So, unless you want to stay out of the parade altogether, which would be a calamity, you'd better apply your brain to the problem of your feet."

AVIS CAPITULATES

She smiled in the friendliest fashion at the girl as she delivered her little diatribe, but there was something in her voice that hinted of steel. And I noticed that Avis made no more protests, and that in the next processional down the room her steps synchronized with the others.

But it was not until that perfection had been repeated three times that Lillian finally pronounced herself satisfied, and I came forward and took the center of the stage.

"I'm going to take Noel and Mary away with me for a séance," I announced. "The rest of you may dance or do anything you like for an hour only. Then I'm going to chase you all to bed, for we have to get up early tomorrow."

BOB PLAYS HIS ROLE WELL

"Put a fox-trot on, somebody," Bob directed. "I'm going to show Avis just how a real honest-to-goodness he-man dances."

He slipped an arm around her waist and pulled her up to him audaciously.

"Here's where I make all the rest of the men bite their fingernails," he said, and as I walked with Mary and Noel to the door, I had hard work to keep from laughing at the efficient manner in which Bob was keeping his

Suggestions for Costume Hats

By PRUNELLA WOOD

ODD hats that gave a nod to the approaching Equinox don't seem to fill the bill now that we are in our proper stride about a whole new wardrobe. Every new gown or coat seems to howl for its own special hat, and the models are so many and so alluring that a blueprint, efficient job will help selection a lot.

If you have gone in for one of the various velveteen types of frocks, those that show a tunic or a shirtmaker top in some luscious shade, a good looking tailored felt hat is your best bet. It may be a cavalier affair, sweeping and audacious, or a silly little pill box that better sets off your cameo type of beauty.

* * *

THE green hat, romantic as ever, will be swell above any of the lame-woven silk or wool dressmaker dresses, now so much with us, especially those that have a black background. When it comes to dressier, more specially afternoon gowns, you can't go wrong with an elaborate beret or tricorn, with or without a flirtatious little veil to make it very kippy.

Indeed, many a plain hat can be made formal by adding one of these veils.

* * *

EVENING hats may be very, very lush, of gold, silver or black sequins, but they are not the sort of thing that a budgeteer will get a lot of good out of; the tulle caps, bordered with tiny feathers, or something just as subtle, will probably be more useful in the long run.

Top left, brown felt toque banded with grosgrain; top right, swagged black felt with black quill. Lower left, stitched green velvet with black grosgrain; beside it, black velvet pill box with overlay of white birds. The dinner hat with the face wreath is brown tulle

Roquefort For Fall Meals

PLANNING a different type of luncheon for the monthly sewing circle—why not "cheese it"?

The table may be attractively decorated in Autumn colors and a simple course luncheon served, consisting of Cream of Tomato Soup, Celery, Olives, Hot Biscuits, Soufflé of Roquefort Cheese, Dressed Lettuce, topped off with a bowl of various fruits for dessert and Coffee.

So many women, until they have actually tried a different cheese and discovered its appealing flavor, are unaware of the possibilities of improving their daily meals. A cheese, such as the genuine Roquefort with its spicy, dry cheese tang, adds much to meats, vegetables and fish, besides furnishing valuable

Natural Oils Replenished in New Way

By Juliet Shelby

When we get home from the football game, our faces may have a cracked, strained feeling —but it was worth it! Later, after the guests have departed and we are alone with the thoughs of the fun we've had, it's well to give a thought to our face. That is the time for you to remember this swell treatment.

One of our most modern, scientific beauticians has put the result of years of research into a corrective treatment for dry skin. It takes 45 minutes daily for two weeks, but you will find it worth your while because it keeps the skin smooth and soft. It will prevent those tiny lines from appearing!

To give this home treatment you will need a jar of the special cleansing cream, a bottle of skin freshening lotion, a jar of corrective cream and a bottle of lubricating oil.

Apply a generous amount of the face cream to cleanse the skin, not forgetting your neck. Massage this into your skin with upward and outward strokes, then remove with a soft tissue. Apply more cream and repeat. Leave this on for three minutes and then remove. You will find the skin has absorbed a great mount of the cream.

Next take a piece of absorbent cotton and drench it with the freshening lotion. Rub it over the face and neck with the same motion. With a piece of cotton, saturated in the lotion, pat the face lightly. Use a rotary motion when applying around the eyes.

The corrective cream is next. Its bouquet and texture will do wonders for your skin. Put the cream on lavishly and massage it into the skin. After leaving on for fifteen minutes, wipe off the unassimilated cream with cotton dipped in the freshene .

The final step is the special lubricating oil. Put about a tablespoonful into a dish and place in a pan of hot water. When the oil is warm, spread a coating on your face and neck. Relax for 15 minutes; do not move the muscles of your face. Remove the oil with a tissue and apply the freshening lotion.

Don't stop with this. Remember that true improvement requires time and patience, so keep up the treatments for the required two weeks. When your skin is back to normal, give it an occasional treatment to keep it up to scratch.

You may learn the name of this treatment and where it is sold, by phoning Juliet Shelby, Liberty 4000. If you refer writing for this information, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to Miss Shelby, Boston Evening American, Boston.

Effective Under-Trumping By Defense to Avoid Squeeze

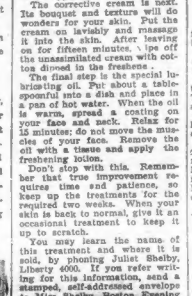
By JOSEPHINE CULBERTSON

The squeeze owes much of its fascination to its quality of inevitability. The squeezer is identified with all-powerful Fate. The squeezee appears to have no control over his destiny.

How much more fascinating, then, is the escape from a squeeze. The intended victim defies Fate and effectively asserts his right to freedom. By far-sighted strategy he outmaneuvres his apparently all-powerful enemy.

Sometimes the escape is effected by the early removal of a necessary entry from the hand of Dummy or Declarer. Much less frequently—in fact, so rarely that I have seen it only twice in my eight years of Contract Bridge—it is effected by a deliberate, under-trump play by the defense. A most beautiful example of this occurred in the hand below, which was played in a recent rubber game. The play was made by Mr. Leo Sheinwold of New York City, who sat in the East position.

North, Dealer.
Neither side vulnerable.



After North opened the bidding with one club, South did not need much imagination to realize that a Grand Slam bid in spades would not be a bad gamble.

West made his best possible opening lead, a low diamond. East topped Dummy's card, and the Declarer ruffed. The Declarer now laid down five rounds of trumps and found the 3-1 division. He next went over to the Ace of clubs and ruffed a diamond in his own hand. Now, to further test out the distribution with a view of discovering whether he might not try a squeeze rather than simply relying upon the club finesse, South laid down his three good heart tricks. When they all held, he ruffed the fourth heart with the spade 8 in Dummy.

At this point East made the spectacular but very sound play of under trumping with his remaining spade. Actually this was the only way that the contract could be defeated. Had East retained his trump, he would have had to discard either a club or a diamond.

To discard a club of course would unguard the Queen and cause it to fall subsequently under Dummy's King. To discard a diamond would enable Declarer to ruff out the Ace and establish the King for a club discard. When East under-trumped however, the Declarer was helpless. He ruffed a diamond to return to his own hand and now played out the last trump, being forced to discard from Dummy before East had to choose a discard. East, of course, merely threw the same suit that was thrown from Dummy, and the Declarer eventually had to lose a trick.

Mrs. Culbertson will be very glad to answer questions on bridge. Please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope, and address your questions to Josephine Culbertson, in care of this newspaper.

Cereal, Dates Make Tasty Breakfast

Cereal prepared with modern "plums" — golden dates — inside tempts the most finicky morning appetite. Stir the dates into the cooked cereal just long enough before serving to allow them to be heated through. Allow at least four dates to each person; one cup sliced dates is enough for 6 servings of cereal. Be sure to use the pasteurized dates; the pitted variety saves time, although if desired a package may be pitted with a sharp knife and the dates dropped into a wide-mouthed glass jar. "Eyes," "noses" and "mouth" may be made with dates on the plate of smooth white cereal—tickles the youngsters! Serve with milk or cream.

"Oh, how am I going to tell you this," he cried. "It's about Mrs. McSpaden. Oh, she's frightfully jealous—excessively."

"And I'm the object of her suspicions," queried Juliet, tightening up inside.

"But the injustice of it, that's what I abhor," the distraught little chemist rushed on. "Mrs. McSpaden's been in a ferment ever since that night. And now she asserts my reaction is a plain indication of guilt. You see, I've avoided talking to her—scarcely said a word and hardly touched nourishment. The terrible things she says to me continuously—it's like being bathed in acid. She claims I'm in love with you, and you—oh, I can't say it!"

Juliet was amused but she had a couple of other emotions. One was pity for McSpadden and the other was a blistering contempt for wives of that sort.

"I don't see what is to be done," she said slowly, "except for you to ride out the storm."

McSpadden wrung his two chemically-stained hands together.

"But I've not told you the worst!" he almost sobbed. "She's going to make trouble for you. She threatens, and she means it—believe me I know that woman. She says she's going to write Madame Hubert a letter and demand that you be discharged—and upon you—oh, I want to crawl off and die."

Juliet suddenly felt like marching up to him and kissing him smack on the forehead as though he were twelve years old. And that was precisely what she did.

"You poor darling!" she said softly to McSpadden, who was almost fainting with grief and embarrassment. "Your wife couldn't possibly injure me, no matter what happened. You just trot along back to your garden and flowers and don't worry your little head about it. Everything's bound to be all right."

The whole thing, Juliet told herself, was the familiar tempest in the teapot. Still, it wasn't a very pleasant sort of secret to carry around. It had the venomous sting of scandal—not evil exactly but the appearance thereof.

SHABBY SITUATION

The whole shabby situation was revealed, before nightfall, to the one man she did not want to learn of it . . .

When Juliet was leaving the building Von Guerdon walked out with her.

"Did you succeed in soothing McSpadden's palpitating heart?" he asked sardonically.

"Wouldn't you like to know?" she mocked at him.

"Not if it embarrasses you."

For no good reason—because this, certainly, was only banter—a flash of anger like shrapnel exploded in Juliet.

"I want you to understand once and for all, it doesn't matter to you what I do!" she blazed forth. "We settled that the night of—the night of—"

own business, really. It irritates me beyond all reason. Not because I have anything to conceal, or be ashamed of. As a matter of fact, I'd rather tell you straight out about McSpadden than listen to your sneering, itchy insinuations. McSpadden called on me and brought me some flowers. I gave him a couple of cocktails and he broke into a Highland Fling. Just then his wife arrived, and now she is going to write to Madame Hubert that I'm breaking up her home. The whole thing is simply absurd, but I suppose you'll make a mountain out of it!"

Von Guerdon stopped stock still in the street. One of his hands impulsively seized her arm.

"Wait a minute!" his tone was almost angry. "You mean to tell me that vile woman is trying to link her wormy little husband up with you?"

JULIET AMAZED

Juliet looked at him in amazement. She had expected derision, jealousy, sarcasm — anything except his spontaneous loyalty.

"It doesn't amount to anything —" she began.

"It's the most poisonous thing I've ever heard of!" said Von Guerdon. "That woman—I know the type! Just because you happened, like a civilized human being, to be a bit nice to her forlorn husband, her nasty mind conjures all sorts of indecencies out of the incident. And McSpadden, poor devil, in his starved heart, merely wanted to touch the hem of your garment, so to speak. I can understand that. I can see his wife now, beefy and overfed, shrieking about the sa-purse. But don't you worry."

"Oh, I'm not worrying," she said, still a little breathless from his vitriolic denunciation.

"Don't you worry if she does write to Madame Hubert," he went on. "I'll step forward for you if it comes to that. But the thing I resent is that ghastly female passing judgment upon you, according to the standards of her own obscene mind. I'm rather why you were nice to McSpadden. It was because you pitied him—just like you pity that little Katie Schmid, or any other helpless animal. I'm not constructed that way myself, but that person is a misfortune. What swine cannot understand they always try to trample in the mud!"

"You are rather a nice strong arm to lean on, aren't you?" she smiled. "I had no idea you would be so angry."

"What kind of a person do you think I am?" shot back Von Guerdon. "Just because you know O'Hara to me, doesn't necessarily indicate that I'm a scoundrel."

"But I don't prefer O'Hara."

And this was true at the moment. Juliet, indeed, was daily gaining mastery over O'Hara's power to disturb her. When she was apart from him she could think quite calmly of him, and the remembrance of her lost lover was less. It was only when he was in her physical presence—when they were so near they could touch by reaching out—that the old turbulent madness whipped up her blood.

In the next installment read how O'Hara shows himself in a praiseworthy role that Juliet appreciates.

Friend Plans Baby Shower

By MRS. BRECKMAN

SARY SHOWER

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

One of my friends is planning a baby shower for my girl friend. Is it proper to type the cards that are to be sent to individuals, or is it better form to write them in longhand? We are planning to get small cards. Will you kindly give me an idea how to word such an invitation? This is not to be an elaborate affair.

M. D.

It is the best form to write these invitations as notes, not on cards but on note-paper, the smaller-sized, if you wish. And they may be worded like this:

Dear Mary:—

I am inviting a group of Elinor's close friends to come to my home for a baby shower for her on Tuesday, the first of October, at three o'clock, and I very much want to have you come. Will you? Do say "yes," and will you think of some gift you would like to bring for the baby that Elinor is to welcome soon?

Dearest love,

He wrote to the sporting editor of the Star saying that Bally scuffed up his baseballs. The artist has drawn a caricature of just what one of Bally's curves would be like, and boy! It's looped the loop twice, left the batter dazed and hit the catcher on the side of the head. A long nosed ump stands behind, yelling strike! Maybe the town kidders won't swarm down there to the corner barbershop, where Bally shaves, to do their dirtiest.

AUKER WILL SQUARE SERIES TODAY, SAYS MICKEY

Square It Today—Mickey

By AUSTEN LAKE
(In Interview With Mickey Cochrane)

St. Louis, Oct. 6—"We're just starting to fight." That was Mickey Cochrane's statement this morning as Tigers and Cards prepared for the fourth game of the World Series here.

Mickey Cochrane

"Paul Dean was good; yes, better than Dizzy. But Eldon Auker will blind them with his underhand ball today, and Schoolboy Rowe will give us the edge tomorrow.

"The series is not over yet; not by a long shot. The Deans have beaten us but at least one of them was lucky. We'll square it today and let them have both barrels the rest of the way in."

Mickey was stern again, just as he was two days ago when the Cards won the first game of the series. Indeed, he looked at least five years older than he did 24 hours ago.

The World Series strain will tell on anybody, particularly when it is his first as a manager.

Cochrane has great faith in Auker and believes he will square the series. St. Louisans say it is impossible.

'We'll Get Going'—Goslin

By Leon ("Goose") Goslin
Star Slugger Detroit Tigers
Copyright, 1934, by Universal Service

St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 6—When you take one on the chin the way we did in the third game, there's nothing much you can say about it.

Leon Gorlin

We lost it for just one reason. We didn't hit in the clinches. Except in one or two spots, the lower half of our batting order has been pretty weak. In the third game it did almost nothing.

Paul Dean was good but he didn't have to be. We just made it easy for him. He's fast, his curve ball is good, but he isn't half the pitcher Dizzy is.

He just caught us in a hitting slump and made the most of it. Greenberg, for instance, hasn't been anything like the man he was for us during the regular season. I feel sorry for Hank. He's had the tough luck to keep going up there with men on all the time, and his repeated failures are beginning to get under his skin.

We're bound to get going, however. No team in the world figures to make us look bad all the time. So I think you'll see a different team today, with our hitters clicking and the defense tightening itself up a little more.

'Just a Breeze'—Durocher

By Leo ("Lippy") Durocher
Copyright, 1934, by Universal Service

Sportsman Park, St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 6—I've been saying all along that this World Series wouldn't go beyond five games and, after what happened out there in the third game, I'm sure of it now.

Leo Durocher

Paul Dean was faster than Dizzy, I think, and I'll go on record as stating right now that Tex Carleton's side arm delivery will be just as effective today. The thing is just a breeze, I tell you. It's just a case of us having too much class for them, a much better ball club in every way.

We never had any doubt about Paul coming through, even when he loaded up the bases a time or two. He's the coolest kid in the major leagues, you know, and is never so tough as when the other guy is threatening.

I guess Owen and Fox thought so, anyhow, after Paul blew them down on strikes with two on in the fifth. As for that big Greenberg he did get hold of one in the ninth, but outside of that, he's been pitiful with men on.

That Rowe, for instance, was pretty good, and we still would have beaten him if we hadn't let a pop fly fall in the ninth.

'Haven't a Worry'—Frisch

By Joe Cashman
(In Interview With Frankie Frisch)

St. Louis, Oct. 6—"I was certain our luck in Thursday's game was only temporary. The third battle proved it. I don't think we'll be stopped again. Not more than once at any rate," chirped Manager Frankie Frisch, all smiles, as he led the St. Louis Cardinals into the fourth World Series battle with the Detroit Tigers today.

Frankie Frisch

"I haven't a worry in the world. The Deans have tamed the Tigers, as I was sure they would, and they can repeat, though it may be only necessary for one to work again to give us the championship.

"Tex Carleton may not be rated as highly in the public mind as some of my other flingers, but if I didn't think he could win today, I would not start him.

"The Tigers are still dangerous. They're not nearly so weak as they have looked on occasions since the battle started. They were within an inch of causing us plenty of trouble yesterday, when Gehringer's bunder to me with the bases full in the fourth took some crazy hops and I was lucky to nip him by an eyelash.

"But I'm confident my Cards are just superior enough to keep the World Series title in the National League."

Cochrane's Men May Be Bagged For Non-Support

Tigers Have 29 Men Left on Bases In Three Games

By AUSTEN LAKE

ST. LOUIS, OCT. 6—UNLESS MICKEY COCHRANE can devise some method of taking his hired men off the corners at Sportsman's Park, they risk being bagged for loitering and sauntering, not to mention lack of visible means of support.

Austen Lake

Because in these three games of this here now World Series, 29 of Mike's men have been left stranded, until by now their ankles are sprouting wens and their arches bogging down.

In fact in the third game the boys made something of an all-America record for futility. As, for example, in the underlying nine instances:

1—White fouled out in the 4th with 2 on and 1 out.

2—Cochrane flied out in the 6th with 1 on and 1 out.

3—Gehringer grounded out in the 4th with the bases full and 2 out; flied out in the 6th with 1 on and 2 out, and popped up in the 9th with 1 on and 2 out.

4—Greenberg fouled out in the 1st with 1 on and 2 out and struck out in the 3rd with 2 on and 2 out.

5—Goslin flied out in the 3rd with 1 on and 1 out and popped in the 5th with 1 on and 0 out.

6—Rogell flied out in the 2nd with 1 on and none out and filed out again in the 3rd with the bases loaded and 2 out.

7—Owen struck out with 2 on and 1 out in the 5th.

8—Fox popped up in the 2nd with 2 on and 1 out and struck out in the 5th with 2 on and 2 out.

9—Bridges struck out with 2 on and 2 out in the 2nd.

And that, my dears, takes in the whole Tiger family from kittens to jungle prowlers, in the biggest snub to World Series opportunity since 1910 when the Cubs left 14 pairs of feet undelivered on the bases.

* * *

THE "INCREDIBLE HICKS" is the Detroit term for the Dean brothers. But Cochrane calls them Big and Little wind, referring more to the muscle force of their conversation than the draught caused by the pitching speed.

Which is as maybe, considering that all the Deans boys have bragged about has been confirmed in-deed.

Last evening, after the game, Dizzy wandered in the pressmen's cave-of-the-winds, where 300 authors were tapping out their documents in a space little larger than a hay loft, and gave a cash estimate of his worth for next year.

"Eighteen thousand dollars will be about right," he said, with never a blush. "And cheap at the price. Paul . . . well, say 12 to 15 grand."

A moment after Dix had led himself away, Sam Breadon arrived. He listened calmly to the relayed ultimatum and replied, "I'm only the owner, a poor sap who backs this mad merry-go-round. If anybody would guarantee me $18,000 profit a season, I'd lease the club and property for any term of years."

* * *

AS A MATTER OF FACT Breadon, over his whole career, has been a true friend to the ball players in the sense that he has protected them against the taint of selfishness and holds that thoughts of gate receipts, profits and pay are an ugly weed growth in the minds of his workers, which are likely to blight the flowers of illusion.

He has put great pressure on his players' imaginations and has shuttled his men back and forth between his chain of minor league clubs so often that the lineups seem interchangeable and the players themselves are encouraged to stay humble.

He is very fuddled now to find that the Deans have resisted his lessons of humility, and still have sordid ideas about making money. Which may induce him to let them pursue their careers elsewhere next season.

* * *

THERE ARE NOT MANY of the faces on Mr. Breadon's Cardinals now that were in his service when the club won the 1931 World Series. The Deans, Medwick, Rothrock, Collins, Durocher and DeLancey are new among his regulars.

Sam is a sound merchandiser who believes in forking over his stocks quietly lest they turn sour on his hands. Having made heroes for years and unmade them, too, he has no illusions about the quality of glory. And he has said that, for a price, he will sell anything.

So I would predict that if Dizzy draws $18,000—which is a kind of money they are not paying out much these days—he will throw it elsewhere than from Sam's noiseless, silent cash register.

GEHRIG HOLDER OF 4 DIAMOND RECORDS

Chicago, Oct. 6—Lou Gehrig, the iron man of the New York Yankees, a front rank hitter since he became a regular, has won the American League batting championship for the first time, and with it the lion's share of his circuit slugging honors.

Gehrig, who ran his string of consecutive games to 1504, compiled an average of .363, drawing away from his chief rival, Charley Gehringer of the champion Detroit Tigers, in the last week of the campaign. Gehringer finished second with .356.

The Yankee first baseman not only replaced Jimmie Foxx of the Athletics as batting champion, but defeated him in the battle for the home run title.

Gehrig slammed out 48 round trip hits, to 44 for Foxx. Gehrig also drove in 165 runs to lead that department by a wide margin, and had 409 in total bases, another best mark.

Gehringer, second in batting, also was runner-up for individual laurels. He crashed out 214 hits, to 210 for Gehrig, and led the league in scoring with 134 runs.

Ben Chapman, of the Yankees, hit 13 triples for a leadership, and big Hank Greenberg, Detroit's first baseman, hit 63 doubles, and Billy Werber, Boston third baseman, enjoying his most prosperous major league season, led in stolen bases with 40, an unusual number for these days.

Other leading regulars in batting were Heinie Manush, Washington, .349; Al Simmons, Chicago, .344; Joe Vosmik, Cleveland, .341; Greenberg, .339; Foxx, last year's champion, .334, for seventh place; Hal Trosky, Cleveland, and Pinky Higgins, Philadelphia, .330, and Sam West, St. Louis, .326.

Vernon Gomez, the Yankees' slim southpaw, and Lyawood "Schoolboy" Rowe of the Tigers, shared the pitching honors. Gomez led the league with 26 victories and five defeats, and struck out 158 batsmen.

Rowe won 24 and lost eight, and became the only pitcher in his league to rack up 16 victories in a row. Tommy Bridges, another Tiger hurler, won 22 and lost 11, and Mel Harder, Cleveland's fine right-hander, scored 20 triumphs, against 12 defeats.

Detroit led in team batting with an even .300 mark, according to the semi-official figures, and Washington fielded for .974, to outpoint Detroit and New York which tied for second at .973. Philadelphia had the most double plays, 165, and the Tigers turned in two triple plays.

Tech Professor Tilts With Coach

The M. I. T. prexy is demonstrating his superiority over the Tech coach, while Mr. McCall, regularly, and the Tech undergraduate biweekly paper advises the students to watch their leading official in action to pick up pointers on the game as it should be played.

Karaban Returns to Brown Lineup

Providence, R. I., Oct. 6—Two undefeated elevens—Brown and Rhode Island State—meet here this afternoon. Brown was the top heavy favorite to win as the teams took the field.

Both elevens were almost at top strength. The injured Captain Bill Karaban returned to his fullback post for the Bruins in a last minute shift.

Kidnapping Scare Gets 'Dizzy' a Police Guard

By Associated Press

St. Louis, Oct. 6—The pitching brothers Dean today suffered the penalty of greatness — a police guard.

It all came about because of Dizzy's indiscretion when he was leaving Sportsman's Park after the ball game yesterday. Two smartly dressed young men offered to give him a lift back to the hotel in their automobile which bore New York license plates. Dizzy promptly hopped in.

"Do you know those men?" demanded Breadon when the messenger returned. Dizzy in tow.

Maybe that is all they were, but Breadon lec ed the pitcher about gamblers and kidnapers and sent him back to the in a cab. After that he called police and arranged for a guard.

"Shucks," said Dizzy, "nobody's going to kidnap me. Not in this town. Even if they did, that wouldn't do Detroit as good, less'n they took Paul, too, and I guess two Deans would be more than enough."

The great Dizzy, however, was right proud of his escort and introduced the policeman by name to all he met. Each introduction was followed by a gesture of the thumb, and a whisper:

"He's guarding me."

The kidnaping scare popped up in Detroit, too, before the World Series there, and "Schoolboy" Rowe, star Tiger pitcher, had police protection wherever he went.

Hero Martin's Two Errors Costly to Cards

Sportsman Park, St. Louis, Oct. 6

We hear that it is raining buckets in Boston. Well, here it is a nice June day, with the ladies in pleasant garden colors and the gents in summer weight jackets or plain shirtings.

The game had hardly begun, when Frisch and his infielders romped in to brawl with chief umpire Reardon about White's strike. White whiffed at the ball, but Reardon must have blinked at the moment. He called it a ball. As the boys came trooping in, Reardon dashed out to meet them halfway, stabbing a corkscrew finger at Frisch. It's the best way to meet trouble—halfway.

Gehringer, the steadiest Tiger o' the Series and the only man who has performed up to advance advertising, hit a hot shot single to left center in Detroit first. He harried Carleton and the latter patched out, but finally Goslin added Gehringer to the long list of "left over" batters by flying out to center. Gehringer is the thirtieth Tiger left on base in this Series thus far.

A tailor-made double play killed off the Cardinals' chance in the first. Martin had walked, but Rothrock hit a few feet to the left of second base, so that all Rogell had to do was to sep on the bag and in one motion complete the play at first. Martin tried to block the throw, by coming head-on to Rogell, but the latter banged the ball right down his throat," as the saying goes, and Pepper pulled in his neck like a turtle.

With down in the Detroit second, big Hank Greenberg, the Jewish lad from the Bronx hoisted a liner to short that Durocher tried to snag with a cartwheel motion. It hit his glove, but the power of the drive, broke through.

THE BOYS OF BOTH TEAMS ARE GIVING REARDON A BAD AFTERNOON. THEY DON'T LIKE HIS BALLS AND STRIKES.

The St. Louis blues began for Auker in the Cards' second. Medwick singled to center, measuring the pitch like a tailor. Then came Collins' double to the right field screen, on which Fox made a hysterical throw to catch Medwick at third, on which, if he had his head up, he might have kept on going home. Auker then walked Delancey to fill the bases.

Auker got out of his hole cheaply at that, considering that he had the bases choked with none out and only allowed one run, the result of Orsatti's rainbow fly to Goslin. The Goose made a nice throw in, having caught Medwick at the plate in one of the earlier games, but this time was miles too late. The rest of the Cards were routine outs.

Orsatti made a circus catch on Ahkers long wind-blown fly to deep right center. He knew he was nearing the fence and finally made a backward leap, like the daring young man on the flying trapeze. He held the ball, though he smacked himself a pretty lick on the boards and took time for repairs.

Good old Mickey Cochrane, who has been having a miserable time at the bat, lammed a double that hugged the first base foul line with two out in the Tigers' third. Mike took off his cap to lessen the wind resistance and beat Rothrock's throw standing up.

A moment later the bases were full and Frisch was holding his committee meetings in the box. Carleton had walked Gehringer and Goslin, his wizard ball, sift, and this time the Tigers made the most of their chances, Rogell hitting through the box to score two runs. The bases have been full of Tiger feet many times in this series, but this is the first time they have harvested the crop.

It proved the end of Carleton, and who should be summoned from the bull pen but our old war horse, Dazzy Vance. He meandered slowly over the turf, like Grover Alexander had done in the famous 1926 Cardinal-Yankee series where he struck out Lazzeri. Daz has been around baseball for a quarter of a century, but this was his first appearance in a World Series.

Dazzy's luck was not in, Greenberg hit his second pitch to Durocher, a hard chance which Leo messed up, failing on the tummy and the ball rolling away, and Martin plunged [illegible] deeper in the slough, by throwing too high to Collins on Owens' [illegible] Ripper was in the [illegible] Owen crossed the [illegible] While the scorer called it a hit [illegible] to be no errors in these St. Louis parks, so Dazzy had the bases full. Mind you all this started with two out.

Nine Tigers batted in that third, and only got three runs out of it. The bases were filled twice, a two-base hit and three singles, only two of which were real, legitimate wallops. It was the first time that the Tigers had been ahead of the Cards in early innings.

Can you imagine a man losing a ground ball in the sun. That's what happened to Rogell on Frisch's bounder in Cardinals' third. The ball was slow and high bouncers, but as Rogell moved to take it, he folded his arms over his face and dashed away, dazzled by the Ole Debbil sun.

There were two out here too, when Auker had his bad moment. He passed Medwick, who stood on the bag clapping encouragement to Ripper Collins, and Rip swung from his hip pocket, driving a liner to center that scored Frisch and send Medwick to third. It was promising, but Delancey holed out to the pitcher, leaving the count Tigers 3, Cards 2.

Dizzy in Hospital

St. Louis, Oct. 6 (INS)—Dizzy Dean was taken to the hospital today for an X-ray examination after being struck on the head by a ball thrown by Rogell, Detroit shortstop. Dizzy suffered a laceration of the scalp but no stitches were required.

Dr. Robert F. Hyland, club physician for the St. Louis Cards, said he thought there was no concussion and believed Dizzy would be able to pitch tomorrow if needed.

The accident occurred after Dizzy was sent in to run for Davis.

Nine Tigers batted in that third, and only got three runs out of it. The bases were filled twice, a two-base hit and three singles, only two of which were real, legitimate wallops. It was the first time that the Tigers had been ahead of the Cards in early innings

CANAM LEAGUE IN TURMOIL

By Associated Press

New York, Oct. 6.—With Spring field and Boston [illegible] on which to play, the Canadian American Hockey League today was unable to complete arrangements for the opening of the [illegible] 25 season at a meeting held here.

The New York Rangers of the National Hockey League, represented by Harold Dubbie, indicated they were ready to [illegible] farm club at Springfield but to date had been unable to come to terms for a rink.

The Boston Cubs were in the same predicament although it was thought their difficulties would be ironed out within a few days as their parent club, the Bruins, had come to terms with the management of the Boston Garden.

James E. Dooley, president of the circuit, was appointed to settle the difficulties of the two clubs and report back at a meeting to be held either Oct. 10 or 12, at which time the schedule will be completed. The tentative opening date was set for Nov. 20.

In addition to Dooley, those present at today's session were Art Ross, Boston; Jean Pas, Providence; Nat'an Ilsley, New Haven; Bernard Krow, Philadelphia, and Roy Hu[illegible]

LIONS LEAD, 6-0, OVER YALE AT HALF

The Lions swept to nine first downs. Yale eked out only one, the Littlemen with it's Rose Bowl stars Barabas, Tomb, Brominski and Nevel in the feature roles, ripped off 203 yards from scrimmage.

Yale totaled just 20. The Lions constantly interested to score again but brain-soaked bal resulted in costly fumbles.

FIRST PERIOD

Yale won the toss and elected to receive Barabas kicked off to Tommy Curtin, who ran ball from the end zone to his own 25-yard line. Yale was put in a scoring position immediately.

Whitehead punted to Tomb, who was downed on Columbia 34-yard line. Yale got a break immediately when Barabas fumbled, Train recovering on the Columbia 31-yard line. The Blue produced a first down on the 16-yard line, but lost the ball on downs without gain Barabas and Tomb combined to punch out a first down for Columbia on their own 29-yard line, and on the next play Barabas, behind perfect interference, cut back through tackle, shot over by the left side line, straight-armed the Yale secondary and raced 71 yards for the opening touchdown. A brilliant individual feat, he scored standing up. Brominski failed to kick the goal from placement.

Score Columbia 6, Yale 0.

Yale received the ensuing kick-off Whitehead came down on the Blue 29 yard line. Whitehead punted on first down to the Columbia 32-yard line. Brominski Tomb, punched out three first downs in a row advancing the ball to the Yale 34-yard line. Tomb punted outside on Yale's 13-yard line. Whitehead's return punt was downed by Johnson on Yale's 46-yard line. Tomb raced around right end for 8 yards and Barabas made it first down through center on the Yale 35-yard line as the period ended.

Score first period: COLUMBIA 6, YALE 0

SECOND PERIOD

After an exchange of punts Columbia took the ball from the Yale 45-yard line and advanced to the Yale 16-yard line. Tomb started off with 8 yards around left end and then was run out of bounds on the Yale 32-yard line, making a first down. Tomb and Barabas carried to another first down on the 16-yard line. Brominski lost four on an end sweep and a bad pass from center on fourth down, recovered by Tomb, cast Columbia 12 yards and the loss of the ball. Schultz, subbing for Callan, in the Yale backfield fumbled on the first play, Tomb recovering for Columbia on Yale's 32-yard line. Tomb then passed to Barabas, who stepped outside after completing the pass on Yale's 24-yard line Columbia was penalized 15 yards. Tomb punted outside on the 15-yard line.

Columbia proceeded to stage a march down of 40 yards deep in the Yale territory in the closing moments, ripping off first downs with Tomb and Barabas alternating in carrying the ball, but Tomb's pass from the Yale 28-yard line was intercepted by Roscoe who was downed on the Yale 12-yard line as the first half ended.

Score—Columbia 6, Yale 0.

THIRD PERIOD

The second half was only minutes old when Columbia's powerplays swept the Lions on a 62-yard sustained march leading to a second touchdown. It took Columbia just 12 plays, in the course of which it made five first downs, to push the Blue back to its own 10-yard line. Barabas, Tomb and Brominski alternating in hitting the tackles crashing through center and sweeping the ends. Yale's line stiffened in the shadow of its own goal posts, Tomb and Barabas being required three times without gain before Barabas found a hole in Yale's left tackle and went hurtling over for a score. Brominski's try for point after touchdown a placement, was slightly to the left of the uprights.

Score—Columbia 12, Yale 0

Columbia kicked off after the touchdown, Roscoe taking Barabas' kick running it back 14 yards to the Yale 24-yard line. The period ended after an exchange of kicks with Roscoe completing a 12-yard pass to Morrison for Yale's third first down of the game. The ball was resting on the exact center of the field. Roscoe was injured on the play.

FOURTH PERIOD

Yale launched the fourth period with an aerial attack which met with marked success when its running plays had failed. Starting from Columbia's 39-yard line where Roscoe had run back Nevil's punt, Roscoe ripped off 6 yards around right end, faded back and ripped it forward to Lawrence Kelley, who was downed on the 18-yard line. Once again Roscoe dropped back and completed a 15-yard pass to Overall, Yale end, who plucked it out of the air while surrounded by Columbia tacklers. Two running plays lost 2 yards. On third down Roscoe faded back 10 yards and found a target in Kelley who was left unprotected near the side lines on Yale's end zone for a touchdown. Roscoe missed the placement try for point.

Score: Columbia 12, Yale 6.

B. C. Scores Twice in Third Period to Lead, 14 to 0

Pratt Field, Springfield, Oct. 6—Boston College met Springfield today at Pratt Field under conditions that were just as bad as those under which they opened their home season against Saint Anselm's last Saturday.

The gridiron was in terrible shape with great puddles showing. Both teams resorted to their largest mud cleats and B. C.'s heavier team is expected to have this advantage in the heavy going.

FIRST PERIOD

Pzenney kicked off to Kadie who was downed after an advance of 10 yards. Three tries through the line left Springfield 12 yards to go and Haston booted to Avery on the B. C. 15.

An exchange of kicks featured by Brown's over the goal quick kick put B. C. back to its 20. Curran of B. C. fumbled and Capt. Cooper recovered only to have Curran intercept a pass after Springfield was held. No gain through the line and McNiven of Springfield snared a pass from Flaherty on the B. C. 23. B. C. held for downs and then Brennan booted them out of danger to the opponent 40 where Pzenney nailed Brown.

McKenney sent in an entire new team to replace his regulars.

The B. C. frontier held and Brown was forced to kick to Fenton on the B. C. 20.

B. C. could get no wher and again kicked but regained possession of the ball on the B. C. 40 when Cushing clipped Ryan.

SECOND PERIOD

B. C. started off fast and on the first play Driscoll reeled off 14 yards for the first down of the game. In three plays, Tortolini added another first down, bringing the ball to the Gymnast 34 yard line. Again Driscoll slashed his way through the muck for another 14 yards to the 38 yard line.

Tortolini picked up three in a series of 3 line bucks. Driscoll could only manage to make 6½ yards and the ball went to the fighting Gymnasts by a few inches on their own 8 yard line when the B. C. attack petered out with a sure score in prospect.

McKenney sent in his first string men as Cushing made a beautiful kick to the B. C 38. Brennan and Cushing then exchanged kicks. B. C. received a bad break waen Bob Curran's 17 yard run around the gymnast right end was not only nullified but B. C. lost 15 yards on the play when the referee detected holding.

Kicks were again exchanged, with neither team making any advance Curran, B. C.'s best performer, was replaced by Ferdenzi whose fumble on a bad pass lost 10 yards and again B. C. was forced to boot. Brown made the best run back of the day, 14 yards on the return, but Springfield could not reem to do anything but stop B. C. which it did effectively for the next few plays as the first half ended.

Score at half—B. C. 6, Springfield 0.

HAMAS WHIPS LASKY IN N. Y.

Thirteen thousand wildly excited fans roared and shrieked for 30 thrill-packed minutes and concluded with the mightiest cheer of all as Joe Humphries pointed to Hamas as the winner.

Hamas deserved the decision and it was immensely popular with most of the spectators, yet he won on the lone vote of Billy Cavanaugh, the referee.

Joe Azzello and Harold Barnes the judges, disagreed on the decision Agnello voted for Hamas and Barnes for Lasky. There was a silence, then a roar of anger as Humphries announced, as he has on several previous bouts that the "judges had disagreed."

SOX AND TRIBE REPORTED IN TRADES

By Austen Lake

St. Louis, Oct. 6—The first of the winter baseball trades and it may be several more—has been completed today by the Boston Red Sox and the St. Louis Browns.

While official verification was not forthcoming, it was reliably reported that Eddie Collins had swapped Dusty Cooke, outfielder and Bill Cissell, second baseman to the Browns for Oscar Melillo of the St. Louis second sacker.

Second base was one of the infield troubles of the Red Sox last season and the move of Collins is designed to fill up a porous condition around the middle station.

Melillo is accounted one of the best second basemen in his league, exceeded probably by only Charley Gehringer of the American League champion Tigers. Although weak at bat—he hit only .239 in 140 games last season—he is a bulwark on defense.

Cissell and Max Bishop divided second base duty for the Sox last season. In 102 games, Bill hit for .289 Cooke out for the same part of the season with an injury, played in only 72 games and hit for .241.

In the absence of Eddie Collins who was closeted in conference with baseball men, President Tom Yawkey stated that no conversations had yet been held with the St. Louis Browns about Melillo.

But he hinted that the Boston team was "interested" and that Collins had several trades in mind. It has been reported that Manager Rogers Hornsby and Melillo are not on the best of terms, personally, and that the club would be willing to listen to favorable offers.

Lindstrom and Grace on Way to Tribe, Rumor

By Joe Cashman

St. Louis, Oct. 6—There is a report rife among the World Series contingent that the Braves and Pittsburgh Pirates will pull a big trade soo nafter discussion of this series has died down.

As the story goes, Pittsburgh will send Pitcher Al Smith, Catcher Earl Grace and Outfielder Freddie Lindstrom to the Tribe in exchange for one of the Boston crack mound trio of Ed Brandt, Fred Frankhouse and "Huck" Betts and an outfielder.

Such a swap might help both clubs. The catching problem, which has been vexing Bill McKechnie for years, would be solved by the acquisition of Grace, while the addition of Lindstrom would furnish that extra hard-hitting outfielders the warriors have sought.

Another standout pitcher would make the Bucs a serious ennant contender and it is known that they regard Randy Moore so highly as an outfielder that they were on the verge of giving Lloyd Waner for him last winter.

Daffy in Friendly Tiff With Dizzy

By Pat Robinson

International News Service Sports Writer

Lon (the 6-Paul (Daffy) Dean, brother of the delirious Dizzy, has gone on strike. Not, I hasten to assure you, against the Cardinals, but against Brother Dizzy.

All his life Daffy has been a perfect foil for Dizzy. He's sat in the shadow while Dizzy grabbed the spotlight. He's been silent while Dizzy bragged. He's been the ideal stooge, the incomparable "yes" man for Dizzy.

But no more. There's a new Daffy now. A Daffy who demands his place in the baseball sun. The new Daffy came to light just after he had not only matched but bettered Dizzy's performance against the Tigers.

STOPS DIZZY DEAD

The metamorphosis took place in the clubhouse. As Daffy entered Dizzy was saying: "Didn't I tell yuh how this Series would be—me and Paul, that's all.

And right there was where Daffy threw off his master's yoke and spoke his little piece to the amusement of the Cards and the amazement of brother Dizzy.

"Where do yuh get that 'me and Paul' stuff?" demanded Daffy. "How about me saying 'me and Dizzy' for a change." I guess I ain't so poor my own self."

"Well, I'll be darned," said Dizzy. "But that's the way to talk, kid. Now we'll both get plenty publicity." He turned to the gang and added: "See, we're smart, us Deans, ain't we?"

Delancey, the 19-year-old catcher who handles both the Deans was off to one side explaining quietly how Daffy did it.

"He had more speed than Dizzy out there today. We used anything but fast balls to get rid of every hitter. Every hit they made was made off a fast ball. We just wasted the curve. He was a little wild but that was because he was putting too much on the ball. He was bearing down too hard."

DEANS WITHOUT NERVES

"Nervous in a jam? That bird? Say, those Deans are too nutty to have any nerves. Now in this next game I figure Tex Carleton will be just as tough for them because he's a side wheeler and his delivery will be a lot different to look at after seeing Daffy."

Nearby Leo Durocher was assigned to Frankie French.

"It's lucky I'm in the lineup or they'd never get us out."

"Don't worry about that," returned Frankie, slapping him on the back. "As long as you hold up your end at short, the rest of us can do the hitting."

"Yeh, that's right," added Jim Collins, whose 35 homers and great play this year were shadowed by the Dean brothers' pitching. "We'll do the hitting, Leo you do the fielding."

Over in the Tiger clubhouse, a sad Mickey Cochrane was having two deep gashes in his leg sewed by the trainer. They were put there by Medwick sliding home in the second game, Mickey seemed on the verge of tears.

GREENBERG DISAPPOINTMENT

"Our hitting is lousy," admitted Mickey. "I'm going to start Auker in the next one and if he wins, I'll shoot again with Crowder and follow with Rowe. If Auker loses, of course, I'll have to come back right away with Rowe. We're not licked yet." But Mickey didn't sound too confident about it.

Mickey is bitterly disappointed in the showing Hank Greenberg, the big first baseman from the Bronx. So much so, that he is going to drop him down below Goslin and Rogell in the batting order. Eight times up with men on and no hits proved too much even for a patient guy like Mickey.

MANCHESTER IN TIE WITH ROVERS

By Associated Press

London, Oct. 6—Leaders in the first division of the English football league remained stationary today, following drawn battles. Manchester City, Sunderland and Arsenal, first, second and third respectively, were separated by a single point each.

Manchester City battled to a 3-3 tie by Blackburn Rovers. Sunderland fought Middlesbrough to a 1-1 stalemate, and Arsenal was unable to put a goal past Stoke City holding them to a 2-2 score.

Preston North End and Derby deadlocked with a scoreless draw after the latter had played most of the game with ten men due to injury.

Glasgow Rangers, Scottish leaders, won a close engagement at Airdrie to remain just a point ahead of the battling St. Johnston outfit at top of the first division. Clyde slipped from its tie for second place, being held to a draw by Motherwell.

VAN WIE-TRAUNG ALL EVEN AT 18TH HOLE IN TITLE FINAL

COAST GIRL IS 3 UP WITH 42 AT THE TURN

By Associated Press

Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 6.—Last from San Francisco playing in her first championship, and Virginia Van Wie of Chicago, in all even at the halfway mark of their final match for the women's national championship.

They came out at the end of the first nine holes on the Philadelphia Cricket Club course at Chestnut Hill with Miss Traung, the Pacific Coast star, having reversed her late form and come to the front by a one-up margin.

They had finished even at 42 strokes apiece, Miss Van Wie having taken the lead on the 5th hole. Then Miss Traung won the 6th, lost the 7th and won the 8th in 43.

Heavy rain, a spell of wind and a fine drizzle had set in on the Whitemarsh Valley course, which is a quagmire.

A gallery of about 200 was on hand as the two finalists teed off.

Miss Traung showed no nervousness except in the opening hole within three feet of the cup and took the first hole with a par five as the champion was hung out of trap and in the rough. She won the second in one over par 5 as both missed short putts and then lagged dead for 4's.

The champion went three down as she three-putted the fourth from 40 feet but was her former self on the fifth as Miss Traung topped her second shot and a cleek into the rough.

They halved the sixth as Miss Van Wie chipped up to within eight feet and then got down in two putts while Dorothy was three-putting from 38 feet.

The 380 yard seventh was halved with 6's as they three-putted from approximately 36 feet and they also halved the eighth, Miss Van Wie chipping "dead" and Miss Traung holing a four-footer for her four.

Miss Traung became three up at the short ninth, canning an eight foot putt for a birdie 3, while Miss Van Wie missed her first putt from 20 feet.

Miss Traung, out 555 465 443—42

Miss Van Wie, out 5-6 555 443—45

(Miss Traung three up.)

After they holed the 17th with par 4s, Virginia won the 14th, to draw level with Miss Traung for the first time in the match.

The 15th was halved with 5s, Virginia's tee shot at the 140 yard 16th was trapped, but she got down 20 feet past the cup and sank the putt for a half in 3's.

The champion then holed a seven foot putt for a birdie four at the 17th to go into the lead for the first time as Miss Traung required a six.

Both were on the 18th in three and Miss Traung faced a six foot putt for a four to win the hole and square the match for the morning round.

Miss Traung, in, 5-7 465 554-43—85

Miss Van Wie .. 565 455 545-40—85

MY DANDY WINS GETAWAY DAY FEATURE

By Dave Egan

Rockingham Race Track, Salem, N. H. Oct. 6.—My Dandy has only one eye.

My Dandy is nine years old, a veteran campaigner on the tracks. But this afternoon, he plodded thru the mud in the Gen. Green handicap, the feature event of the meet, Jimmy Lynch did the riding and did it well. He took the horse out fast from the barrier, jumped into the lead, and refused to relinquish it.

Do not get the idea that My Dandy was the favorite to win. Only last week he tired in the mud, and the bettors installed the Mr. Whitney entry—High Glee and Wait Awhile—as the favorite to win.

The favorites, however, failed to get into the money. Thomasville, a 4-1 shot was second, a length and a half behind the victor, and Fleam was third. The winner paid $15.80 and Thomasville for a place ticket paid $6.60.

Fraidy Cat romped home the winner of the Juvenile Handicap for a purse of $5000. The black gelding from the Headley Stable ran true to form and led the field from start to finish, and had little difficulty in maintaining the lead. Blackbirder, left at the post, came from last to third, and had two positions gradually, moved up on the inside at the stretch turn and raced about under punishment to the finish for the first money earned by a mount in the money in 3 starts. Maddening dug very good speed for the first half-mile but faded in the stretch. Chief Cat, well up for a mile, showed no more speed and weakened through the last quarter-mile. Love is Bad got very sore.

REPLIES TO QUERIES SUM UP FHA LOAN REQUIREMENTS

By RUTH MUGGLEBEE

(This is the LAST o. a series of articles explaining the new National Housing Act, which, under facilities developed by the Federal Housing Administration, enables home owners to obtain inexpensive, easy-to-repay loans for improving or repairing their homes.)

The answers to the many queries which have come to the Housing Editor, as printed in today's Boston Evening American sum up adequately the information which home owners need in order to make application for the modernization or renovation loans offered by Uncle Sam.

T J F T of Dorchester:

Any property owner, individual, partnership or corporation, with a regular income from salary, commissions, business or other assured source may apply. It is not necessary to be a depositor in the financial institution consulted

HOUSING EDITOR.

To Mrs P T M. of Roxbury:

You do not borrow money from the government, directly. Your business is done with the bank which in turn has qualified under a contract of insurance under the regulations of the Federal Housing Administration. In this way those make the loan to you, the financial details being handled with the contractor. Only the terms of repayment are handled with you

HOUSING EDITOR.

To Jack O. of Providence:

You may apply for from $100 to $2000, depending on your income, for improvements on your property. The only security that is required of you is that you have an adequate regular income and a good credit record in your community

HOUSING EDITOR.

To Mrs. Anna L. of S. merville:

Your rules may run for any number of months, from one to three years. The bank officials determine these terms after considering your financial situation.

HOUSING EDITOR.

To Mrs. Mary H. G. of Black stone:

You ask me if the owner of any kind of property may apply. Applications will be considered for credit to improve one-family, two-family, or other residences, apartment buildings, stores, office buildings, factories, warehouses and farm buildings. You repay a note by making regular, equal, monthly payments until the note is paid in full

HOUSING EDITOR.

To John I. of Cambridge:

You are not required to use specified building materials. You are investing your own money (even though borrowed) in better housing. There should be no restrictions on your rights as an owner to use such materials and employ such methods of construction as you may desire. Of course, providing they meet the approval of the lending agency.

HOUSING EDITOR.

To L. E. W., of Chelsea:

If the equipment you mean is an integral part of the improved building then your application is an eligible one. Refrigerators, stoves and the like, are movables and are not permitted under terms of the loan. No, under the regulations of the Federal Housing Administration any money borrowed can not be expended for taxes, but must be used for the improvement or repairing of homes.

HOUSING EDITOR.

To Alex S., of Waltham:

You must not permit your payments to fall in arrears. Should a payment be more than 15 days late, the financial institution concerned, caused thereby, may be reimbursed in part. Persistent delinquency will make it necessary for the bank or lending agency to take proper steps to effect collection in full. By all means be sure that you can afford improvements before you begin them.

Ship in Distress Is Taken in Tow

Fort Lauderdale, Fla. Oct. 6 (AP) The coast guard cutter Cuyahaset sent a wireless message to its base here today that it had in tow the SS Western Sword which dropped a propeller about 200 miles south of Jupiter Light.

The Cuyahaset left from Port Everglades in response to a call said.

ABOUT FACES by ART. MOGER

Old and new features combine today's "About Faces" drawings, as appearing exclusively in the Boston Evening American.

You will recognize old Hollywood favorites as they appear at the newly renovated Beauty Square Theater. This famous Boston theater reopened yesterday to exploit things. You will find answers to today's About Faces scenes if you visit the theater, where the screen offers "Hell of the Nineties" and the stage presents seven big acts of vaudeville direct from Broadway.

To correct... ...s Today's About Faces series you will find squares beneath the drawings of the Hollywood stars. The squares equal the number of letters in their names. Letter given as clues and fill in these squares. Mail your entire week's solutions, ending with today's, to. The About Faces Editor, Boston Evening American, Boston, Mass.

To those submitting the most original and most correct solutions, the Boston Evening American will award: First prize, $5; second prize, $3; third prize, $2; and 15 prizes each of a brand new one dollar bill.

Democratic Drive Puts Registration at 300,000

By BERNARD J DOHERTY

With nine working days left [illegible] a registration of voters [illegible] totals, at the 300,000 mark, within 9,000 of the highest total on record.

Registration teams in every section of Boston are straining to hit the mark of 325,0000 set by Ex-Mayor James M. Curley, Democratic gubernatorial nominee.

In addressing a group of ward workers, John W. Newman, president of the Democratic city committee, impressed upon his hearers that every new voter is generally sure of going to the polls. He declared:

"The policies of President Roosevelt are being challenged by our opponents. The only answer that means anything is the action of the people at the polls. Let us give the Roosevelt New Deal its greatest national endorsement in Boston. Get the voters registered."

Democratic candidates [illegible] Gaspar G. Bacon [illegible] for [illegible] Governor, [illegible] Attorney General; Daniel C. Hastings of Dedham, re-elected [illegible] and the opponents of the Democratic ticket, will be [illegible] chief speakers.

George C. Tarbell, chairman of the Republican State Committee, in a statement defiance the claims of ex-Mayor Curley and his adherents of having monopolized the excellent work of getting voters to register are very amusing.

"As manager of the Bacon campaign former State Senator Frederick Butler of Andover, maintains that Bacon will win by a substantial majority. He declares that Curley reached his peak in the primary.

4 Spent $10,357 in Government Race

The four candidates seeking the gubernatorial nomination in the recent primary election spent $10,357, their financial reports on campaign expenditures filed with Secretary of State Frederic Cook revealed today.

Former Mayor James M. Curley, who obtained the Democratic nomination for governor, spent $3360, that in the form of a contribution to the Democratic state committee. His report revealed no contributions.

Lieutenant-Governor Gaspar G Bacon, given the G. O. P. endorsement for chief executive of the state, spent $1231, receiving nothing.

Charles H. Cole, who failed in his bid in seeking the approval of the Democrats for the gubernatorial nomination, spent $438. His report showed $436 in contributions.

Frank A. Goodwin, who sought both Democratic and Republican nomination and who will run in the November election as an Independent, spent $405 and received nothing.

ROOD, 'CHANGE OFFICIAL, DIES

John Freeman Rood, 61, superintendent of the [illegible] Stock Exchange and one of the leading Baptist laymen of the state, died suddenly today at his home, 8 Gellmans terrace, Malden. He suffered a heart attack.

Mr Rood was born in Port Hilford, N. S., and came to Malden in 1895, and obtained a position with the Boston Stock Exchange. He was at work yesterday, and his death came as a shock to business associates and friends.

He is survived by [illegible] son, John F. Jr a student at the University of Alabama and Hiram, a student of the Rockford [illegible] at Troy, N. Y. and one daughter, Mrs F. S. Larkin of Malden.

Funeral arrangements have not yet been completed.

CURLEY PRAISES NEWS MOVIES

Former Mayor James M. Curley, present Democratic nominee for governor, congratulates the Hearst-Metrotone News Release with Edwin C. Hill as commentator. In a letter he states:

"I have seen your first news release, with Edwin C. Hill as your commentator and desire to congratulate the people of the country in having so able and fearless a presentation of the events of importance from every section of the world.

"In times like these, the people are thinking deeply and need the facts upon which to base their conclusions. Your service has every evidence of being a careful and complete summary of matters of real public interest."

RETAIL TRADE JOBS GAIN

Increased employment in the wholesale and retail trade groups during August was announced by Director Edward L. Hanna of the Boston office of the state unemployment service.

Hanna said that a total of 499 persons were placed by his office last month and that applications for work decreased from 2308 in August to 2027 in September.

Further increase in placements is expected shortly, because of the start of several large public works projects

STOKES LEADS SPEER PROBE

By JOHN H. NOONAN
Boston Evening American Staff Correspondent

Northfield, Oct. 6—Captain John F Stokes and Lieutenant Joseph Ferrar, ace detectives of the State Police, today entered the investigation into the shotgun slaying of Dr. Elliot Speer

Captain Stokes and Lieutenant Ferrari joined Lieutenants Albert Dasey, Richard Cotter and Silas Smith, in charge of the investigation since the murder three weeks ago.

Upon their arrival here an eight hour conference was held between the detectives and school officials including Dean Thomas Elder of the Mt Hermon faculty.

The conference was held at Holbrook Hall. Every phase of the case since the investigation began was discussed.

Dr. Speer was slain on the night of September 14, at about 8 p. m. the victim of a fusillade of shotgun charge fired at him through the window of his home.

City Can't Find Gravedigger

Wanted: One gravedigger.

City Engineer James Mullaney of Somerville sought one in vain today when he was faced with the opening of the 131-year-old cemetery in Somerville avenue for the first time in many years.

Visits to seven Somerville undertakers brought only negative shakes of the heads when Mullaney asked for a gravedigger. At a late hour he had met with no better success.

Mullaney said the request for a grave came from a Roslindale undertaker, who said the family of a former Somerville resident held a deed to one of the graves.

Recount in N. H. Vote

Concord, N. H., Oct. 6 (AP)—A recount was started today by the office of the Secretary of State of Democratic ballots in the first congressional district. The recount was asked by Timothy F. O'Connor of Manchester, defeated by 1100 votes on the official primary ballot count by Congressman William N Rogers of Wakefield.

SEES BENEFIT IN RECENT DECLINE

By HUGH E. BRADSHAW

The Saturday press release of the Railway Age is almost always sure to contain some worthwhile excerpts from that trade publication's editorial matter touching on vital subjects. This week is no exception. Prefaced with the cautioning statement that the recent decline in business is a good thing, the editorial goes on to say that it has consolidated and aroused business sentiment, and presents squarely to the administration the question as to whether it will go forward with its New Deal policies in the face of almost 100 per cent adverse business comment. The editorial concludes that badly business is nearly always bad politics. Consequently it confidentially anticipates the next two years will witness less emphasis on reform and much more on recovery.

* * *

To our way of looking at the editorial matter referred to above, it points the way to the highroad of business prosperity. Business and business men begin to believe that such an analysis of the general situation is right, they will start doing things. Confidence in their own concept of affairs is just as important as confidence in the acts of others. There is almost an inspired tone to the expressions of those who believe that having surveyed any situation they have only to exercise their right to attain success. Definitely it is bullish on the American outlook for trade and security prices.

* * *

Comment—The boys who so sang the beauties of agrarian affairs' price-raising policies are in danger of having the words crammed back down their throats . . . Their error in advocating higher white metal prices was in claiming that foreign trade with countries depending on the metal as a major currency medium would benefit. Their reasoning of what followed and the recent plaint of China that higher silver prices were hurting both her internal and external trade is likely to deal the silver cause a body blow.

* * *

The situation in the sugar market is marked with uncertainty. Recent ruling that sugar arriving from Cuba after the turn of the year could not be counted as part of that country's quota adds to the confusion. In the event that Cuba decides to ship in her full amount under the Jones-Costigan Act some 850,000 tons of sugar must be marketed over and above the 200,000 tons she has allowed for to date. It is an intricate situation trying to skilled observers of sugar affairs. We still think the sidelines are safest for amateurs.

* * *

Briefs . . . Sugar shares, dependent on such tangled conditions in the raw and refined market, also might be avoided for the present. Retail sales business in New England is healthy . . . From 1929 to 1933 it declined by 42 per cent. Compared with 47 per cent for the country . . . This section in load accounted for 7.6 per cent of the total . . . Latest figure is that it now accounts for 8.5 per cent . . . And current reports indicate that these gains are not being held but extended.

* * *

For the convenience of those who might like to use the issues favored by other financial observers we give in part the list in today's bulletin of the American Institute of Finance. American Brake Shoe & Foundry, American Locomotive, Deere & Co., New York Shipbuilding, Aviation, Commercial Solvents and American Rolling Mill. Some of the issues have been in a bear trend for over a year. However, as the Institute points out, current trends have probably discounted existing difficulties and the 1935 prospect is for substantial improvement in earnings.

Hope Inspired by Largest Trading Volume in Months

By WALL STREET SPECTATOR

Wall Street had the double thrill of seeing stocks go up again and trading volume run to 870,000 shares, the biggest in nearly two months. The hope of a million share day, which would be a milestone in the upturn from the recent business, is doing a lot to sustain sentiment.

The market acts as if it would live up to prices, and the boys are giving it the benefit of the doubt to see if it is more than promises this time.

But there won't be much bullishness unless the industrial averages can go through the 86 level.

This has been the "stone wall" to advances since last June, and given chart readers the jitters whenever stocks go near it . . . The finer point is that in the past the market for big people close to the Montgomery Ward picture is said to have been buying the stock again . . .

* * *

Brokers are beginning to recommend long bull buying in some of the oils, declaring that current quotations, particularly in the low priced group, have discounted the bearish elements in the petroleum situation.

Rumors of another General Motors extra this year are making the rounds.

This would be surprise since the 50-cent extra in August was believed to have represented the maximum generosity of directors for 1934 . . . The board meets early next month. So far the corporation has paid out $1.25 a share against $1.31 over the first half, while the third quarter is expected to contribute around 45 cents more . . .

* * *

Estimates on Chrysler run as high as $8 a share for the year.

Among the optimistic blasts around are that the market will do better right through November.

There is considerable comment on the fact one of the big investment trusts switched more than $4,000,000 from government bonds to common stocks in the third quarter . . .

* * *

Despite the week's recession, steel production is still expected to touch 35 per cent of capacity before the end of the year, Wilson & Company, it is said, will have a good earnings report at the end of January.

Tobacco shares have been crawling up steadily, and are around their best prices of the year, without any ballyhoo either . . . Coal carriers market-wise haven't done much in sympathy with the seasonal gain in traffic that lies ahead.

BOSTON STOCKS ARE MIXED

An irregular tone prevailed in today's dealings on the Boston Stock Exchange. Trading was very quiet and price changes were confined to fractions.

Small gains were recorded in Anaconda, Bigelow-Sanford, preferred, Boston Elevated, Torrington and United Shoe.

Old Colony Railroad was down almost 2 and American Telephone both as much.

Edison, N TngEwdleacoEETET Edison, New England Telephone, Pennsylvania Railroad and Swift & Co. were fractionally lower.

NEW YORK CURB MARKET TRANSACTIONS

Specialties Feature on Curb

By Associated Press

New York, Oct. 6—Specialties and metals were strong spots on the curb today, which closed unchanged up briskly in fairly active trading. Oils, industrials and utilities, however, encountered profit-taking and drifted quietly downward after a brief period of stability right after the opening.

Among metals and specialties rolling from around ½ to more than a point higher were Aluminum Company, Dow Chemical, Knott Corp., Vanadium Mining and Pioneer Gold. Singer Mfg. made an extreme advance of 10 points to attain a new all-time high. The turnover, however, was small. Miscellaneous issues showing fractional improvement included Parker Rust Proof, Penn Road Corp., Sherwin Williams, Swift International and United Shoe Machinery.

Other sections of the list, notably utilities and oils were relatively lower. American Super Power, Cities Service, Cord Corp., Creole Petroleum, Electric Bond & Share, International Petroleum, and Montgomery Ward "A" were unchanged to moderately lower. Turnover of these issues made fractional gains in early trading but profit taking appeared and losses resulted.

NEW YORK BOND MARKET

Prices Higher in Dull Bond Trading

By Associated Press

New York, Oct. 6—Corporate bonds advanced moderately today in response to a fother display of strength in the U. S. government list. Some of the Federals accounted for a good turnover, but the rest of the list showed typical week-end quiet.

Home owners loans continued to make up ground against the losses of the previous week. The 4s worked ahead 10-32ds of a point to 99.8 and smaller gains were credited to the 3s and 2½s. Federal farm mortgage 3½s were up 4-32ds at 102.20. Treasury 4½s climbed 6-32ds to 106.25, and advances ranging from 1-32d to 6-32ds occurred in some of the 3¾s, 4s and 4¼s of 1941, and 1944-46. Called Liberty Fourth 4¼s improved 5-32ds, selling at 101.5.

Rail issues had a firm tone and higher prices were paid also for a number of utility and industrial classifications, including Detroit Edison 4½s, Armour Specified 5s, Goodyear 5s, Postal Telegraph 5s and United Drug 5s. Improvement in the carnot list touched some loans of the St. Paul, Great Northern, Nickel Plate, and Erie.

T. V. A. Articles Are to Start Monday

By Universal Service

Next month President Roosevelt will make a second inspection of the Tennessee Valley Authority activities, unquestionably the most far-reaching social and economic experiment now underway in the United States.

Universal Service, U. S. and what does it mean to the life of the average American citizen? James Thrasher, of Universal Service, a first class reporter in addition to being an economic authority, who has spent many weeks in the valley, has written a series of ten articles for Universal Service giving an interesting and thorough analysis of what the government is doing and how the residents accept it. They will begin October 8 in the Boston Evening American.

POLITICIANS REVIVE OLD FALLACIES

By MERRYLE S. RUKEYSER
(Copyright, 1934, by Universal Service.)

New York, Oct. 6—Under the stress of depression conditions, demagogic politicians have successfully revived old myths and fallacies concerning big business.

Immature schemes to "soak the rich" again have popular appeal. But when the common assertions of soap box economists are tested against the statistics of national income released by the United States Department of Commerce, they do not stand up.

In an effort to find out which members of the community are injured when politicians deliberately adopt taxation and other measures to "soak the rich," a current survey has been made to determine who owns big business in the United States.

The averages reported by 13 eminent corporation lawyers that of their total number of stockholders about 70 per cent own 50 shares or less. The remaining 30 per cent small stockholders have a majority of all the stock outstanding, but they are scattered and unorganized and do not have any real voice in management.

In order to give representation to the scattered small stockholders, corporations might choose a group of socialist public servants who would give representation to the outside viewpoint and which would serve as a watchdog over the corporate funds.

The following lineup as between small and large stockholders was reported by principal corporations:

American Can—Dent de Nemours & Co.—80 per cent of the holders of common and debenture shares hold from 1 to 10 shares.

General Foods—68 per cent of the stockholders own from 1 to 49 shares.

American Telephone & Telegraph Co.—80 per cent of the stockholders own from 1 to 25 shares, and no single stockholder owns as much as 1 per cent of the capital stock.

General Motors—82 per cent of the stockholders own from 1 to 50 shares.

PROFIT TAKING SLOWS SHARE ADVANCE

New York, Oct. 6—The stock market slowed down to a snail's pace today as traders took their profits following yesterday's widespread advance giving the list a moderately irregular appearance.

The list's undertone, though, continued strong and such issues as did occur appeared to be due solely to timid profit taking.

RAILS MIXED

The commodity market continued their improvement as wheat and corn advanced fractionally and cotton moved up 23 points a bale.

Mesta machine was a prime feature advancing more than a point on the announcement that the company had declared a 66 2-3 per cent stock dividend.

Radio Corp. preferred was another individual feature moving up a point on a comparatively large turnover. The upturn in Radio, though, was not accompanied by gains on the list.

Profit taking was apparent in the railroad shares, where considerable irregularity developed. Of worried such as New York Central, Southern Pacific, Atchison and Southern Railway were dull and somewhat sluggish today.

Oils continued to be characterized by inhibited liquidity which served to depress the lead issues, including Socony-Vacuum and Standard Oil of New Jersey fractionally.

REVENUES UP

A Wall Street found some palatable items in the Washington news. Students of the government's fiscal problems were encouraged by the report that federal revenues for the current fiscal year already has passed the billion-dollar mark and showed a gain of $271,000,000 over the corresponding period last year.

A potential source of business stimulus later in the week was seen in the announcement by James A. Moffett, federal housing administrator, that loans in connection with the government's $1,500,000,000 housing program were increasing at the rate of about 40 per cent weekly.

Housing loans to date were placed at $4,600,000.

A sharp decline in automobile production this week was disclosed by Crane's reports. Curtailment is timated at 18,995 units, a decrease of 18,236 compared with the preceding week and 27,026 less than the corresponding period last year.

Assembly lines of eight companies were closed entirely, others having completed production of the 1934 models the past week.

Considerable interest attached to Wall Street, no surprise was expressed at the further increase in the outstanding interest shown in the Stock Exchange's September report. It rose to 668,-415 shares, a gain of 43,504 over the August figure.

STATE STREET SIDELIGHTS

Paine, Webber & Co.—Believe we can confidently expect higher stock prices and increased activity by the early Spring. Many pivotal issues left gaps yesterday in their lists away from Thursday's closes, pointing to an extension of the highs of September and late August. Expect the standard market leaders to continue prominently in the advance.

Josephthal & Co.—The improvement in sentiment which has become more noticeable in the last few days may be attributed in large part to Washington developments, including NRA organization plans, reports of gains in both the railroads and finally reports of changes in tax laws which would help owners of utility issues.

Elmer H. Bright & Co.—The general tone of business men has not varied greatly from that of recent weeks, although some signs of improvement are showing here and there and it is hoped that with the advance of the fall season further gains may materialize.

Market Street Ry. Net Decreases

Market Street Railway reports for 12 months ended Aug. 31, total gross of $962,702 after expenses and taxes and including other income, against $964,229 for 12 months ended Aug. 31, 1933.

Interest, depreciation and amortization of debts discount and expense entirely absorbed these for both the 1934 and the 1933 periods, leaving no balance to be carried to surplus.

Price on Burner Oils Reduced

A one-half cent reduction has been made in prices of medium and heavy burner oils, making the new prices 6¼ cents and 6 cents, respectively, in metropolitan districts. The cut followed recent lowering of the bulk markets for fuel oils.

Waukesha Motor Earns $1.21 a Share

Waukesha Motor Company reports for fiscal year ended July 31, 1934, net of $121,389 after depreciation, federal taxes, etc., equal to $1.21 a share on 100,000 shares of capital stock. This compares with loss of $123,1003 in preceding year.

NEW YORK CLOSE

Yesterday's sales $72,000

In order to facilitate the computation of margins under the regulations of the Security Exchange Act, the Boston Evening American now carries the low since July 1, 1933, instead of the low for the year. The Securities Exchange Act provides that until Feb. 1, 1935, the lowest price at which a security has sold since July 1, 1933, shall be considered as the lowest market price in the preceding 36 months. After July 1, 1936, the Act provides that the lowest price in the preceding 36 months will form the basis for margin computation.

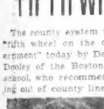
DEAN DOOLEY CALLS COUNTY 'FIFTH WHEEL'

The county system was termed a "fifth wheel on the coach of government" today by Dean Dennis A. Dooley of the Boston College Law school, who recommended the wiping out of county lines as a necessary step to reduce the cost of government.



Dennis A. Dooley

Dean Dooley is an instructor in Municipal Finance and Public Utilities. He said:

"County government, at least as we know it in New England, would seem to be a fifth wheel on the coach of government. Many of the functions now being performed by the county system could be more adequately performed by the state.

"If the county setup was eliminated, it would allow consolidation of the correctional institutions and give unified control to the state of prisons, jails and houses of correction. This would, in turn, make possible the segregation of criminals.

CITIES ESCAPE EXPENSE

"The judges of the county courts all are appointed by the governor. It would be a step in the right direction to make all county officers state officers. With the modern academy of highways it makes unnecessary the former responsibility that counties exercised in building and maintaining safe roads.

"In the densely populated sections it is impossible to distinguish between the county and the city, as in the case of Suffolk county and the City of Boston. Boston bears all the expenses of government operation, while Winthrop, Revere and Chelsea are provided with county services without any apportionment of county expense.

"With the reorganization of counties and separation of their functions, some to the state and some to the towns, there might be a further improvement made in the consolidation of small townships into larger units.

LOCAL PRIDE HINDERS

"Historically the identities of the present towns could be maintained in the same way as Roxbury, Dorchester, Brighton and Hyde Park have had their identities preserved.

"Professor Beale of Harvard recently made a careful study and proposed a plan for consolidation of cities and towns in the Metropolitan area. Why limit the consideration of consolidation to Boston? Why not enlarge Worcester and Springfield. Only local pride and desire to obtain a large number of public offices, more for honor than salary, is the plan opposed.

"Wiping out county lines would do nothing to lessen the services now being performed under the county system. It would have a very definite effect in reducing the costs of government for the taxpayers."

"Thick" Weather Fails to Daunt Junior Birdmen

Driving rain and a low "ceiling" made this a bad day for any fliers, real or just going-to-be-some-day. The Boston Evening American's Junior Birdmen, however, turned out more than 2000 strong to take advantage of their opportunity to be guests of Loew's State Theater, which offered them a program of special aviation films. It was an eager but courteous waiting line that formed as the coveted tickets were passed out. (Picture by Boston Evening American Staff Photographer.)

BIRDMEN RALLY ATTRACTS 2000

Nearly 2000 enthusiastic Junior Birdmen, their friends and special guests, swept into Loew's State Theater this morning and enjoyed two and a half hours of entertainment in the first fall rally of the organization.

Two films and several brief talks made up the program which was interspersed with cheering and applause.

LINE UP IN RAIN

The films were "Night Flight," a stirring drama of air mail operations, produced by the Metro Corporation, starring John and Lionel Barrymore and other screen celebrities, and "Blind Flying," an official army air corps picture. The latter was released by General Foulois, head of the army air corps for the Boston Birdmen's meet, was shown for the first time by a civilian audience. This picture showed army pilots actually engaged in so-called "blind" flying in stormy clouds.

Scores of impatient members of the organization were on hand massed around the doors when Manager Joseph H. Brennan of Loew's state gave the signal for admittance. Despite the chilling rain, scores had waited in line for a half hour or more to get the choicest seats.

Speakers were Captain A. L. Edson, municipal airport chief; Captain G. H. Beverley, second in command of the First Corps Area, 17 S. Army Air Corps, and the Boston wing commander.

EXTENDS AIRPORT BID

Capt. Edson advised all Junior Birdmen to follow closely the special government air course which has been drawn for them by 30 experts of the U. S. Bureau of Air Commerce, Department of Commerce.

He also extended an invitation for Junior Birdmen to have another field day at the airport, explaining that good behavior of the boys and girls at the first air show last June warranted another event.

BROKER BOOKS ACCUSE INSULL

By Associated Press

Chicago, Oct. 6—Stacks of documents by which the government hopes to convict Samuel Insull and his associates for mail fraud were piled high in the Federal court today, while the trial itself stood adjourned over the week end.

The material offered as evidence by the prosecution consisted of ledgers and brokers' accounts, supposed to contain the laboratory records of the manner in which the stock of the Corporation Securities Company was allegedly synthetically produced.

The records demonstrated the elaborate method of the government to convict Insull and his co-defendants on a charge of having used the mails to defraud stock investors out of some $100,000,000.

Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson has barred detailed cross examination by the defense, ruling the jury must confine itself to the facts about which the prosecution has questioned the witnesses.

Mate Runs Third in British Race

Kempton Park, Eng., Oct. 6 (AP)—Victor Emanuel's Good Cash, jockey Statesman today won the Duke of York Handicap at a mile and a quarter by three quarters of a length from Lord Woolavington's Montrose and a field of eight others.

A. C. (Brother) Bostwick's aged campaigner Mate, the second American-owned horse in the race, finished third two lengths behind Montrose.

Statesman was 15 to 2 in the betting, Montrose 100 to 7 and Mate 8 to 1.

IN COMPLIANCE WITH THE PROVISIONS—AS STATED IN ARTICLE FOURTEENTH—OF THE WILL OF THE LATE GEORGE ROBERT WHITE—VIZ:

ARTICLE FOURTEENTH: Whereas my sister Mary E. Sullivan has died, and I have sufficient provision for sister Harriet, I do not carry out my immediate gift my puone charitable purpose which in previous wills I (?) had provided for in remainder, and I do now give all the rest and residue of my property as every nature to the City of Boston the same to be held as a permanent charitable trust fund to be known as the George Robert White Fund, the income only to be used for creating works of public utility and beauty, for the use and enjoyment of the inhabitants of the City of Boston. It is my desire that the principal of said income, however, shall be used for a reasonable compensation of any purposes of the trust which may arise in the ordinary course of events to provide.

The control and management of said fund and the application of the income shall be in the hands of a board of five trustees to consist of the Mayor, who shall be its chairman, the President of the City Council, the City Auditor, the President of the Chamber of Commerce and the President of the Bar Association of the City of Boston. If by any reason of the expiration of the terms of office, death or the decination or resignation of any one or more of the persons holding them for the time being a vacancy or vacancies shall occur in said board, such vacancy shall be filled by the remaining members of the board by the election of the persons whose respective positions and titles are above mentioned, or a majority of such persons thereof, as long as a public charitable gift to the City of Boston, it is my intention that the (6) City shall at all times be qualified to receive and hold the same. Neither of trustees charged with its management.

The business of the Fund shall be transacted through the regular departments of the City, viz, the Treasurer, Auditor, Corporation Counsel, etc., and a suitable office or offices for the use of the trustees shall be provided in the City Hall or elsewhere, in which shall be kept all books and records of every nature relating to the management of the Fund, proper and indexed for ready reference during business hours for the reasonable inspection of citizens, so that all who so desire may be informed as to the condition and management of the Fund. The trustees of the Fund shall not be entitled to or receive any compensation in their official capacity as trustees, but reasonable compensation may be allowed for any purpose within the scope of the gift, and successive accumulations may be applied to the same purpose. The trustees shall have full power that the Fund may be improved, extended, enlarged or added to from time to time, but the current expense of said trust and maintenance of fees as far as possible, it is my direct that no part of said income shall be mingled with other funds or applied in any manner whatsoever, but that said income shall be preserved as a separate fund and distinct, and shall always bear in a conspicuous place a suitable inscription identifying (it) it as coming from and belonging to George Robert White. It for any reason the principal of said Fund shall at any time become impaired, the income shall be allowed to accumulate until the principal of such impaired fund is restored in good.

Inasmuch as I believe an enlightened public opinion to be the most effective safeguard for the preservation and maintenance of such a charitable fund and the best guide to its effective use, I direct that at least once a year the trustees shall cause to be published in most if not all the daily newspapers of general circulation in Boston a full and comprehensive report of the condition and affairs of the trust for at least three months.

As it is probable that said Fund will not consist in greater part of real estate centrally situated in the City of Boston which as increased in value by reason of its location, I urgently recommend that such real estate be not sold for a period of at least one hundred (100) years, that leases of the same (10) shall be entered by the trustees at such rentals every ten (10) years and where necessary shall provide for rebuilding for the leases, that the real estate of the Trust as hereinbefore described thereof shall be kept fully insured.

If any clause or provision of the foregoing charitable gift should be found to be invalid in law, it shall not invalidate the gift as a whole but shall so far as possible be construed as an expression of my general intention.

While I think that Boston has now few, if any, superiors in beauty and in the many advantages of its site to citizens, and that it will be a great city in the years of the future, and there are several public beauties among those afforded by other cities, which I would like to see reproduced in Boston, especially the Public Gardens of Boston, I do not wish to specify particular improvements, etc.—which we do not possess. It is with such things as these in mind that I have created the foregoing trust fund.

It can conceive that provision might be made to apply the income of the Fund for small and comparatively unimportant needs, which might be met by the city serving and technically within the purposes of the Trust as hereinbefore expressed. A use of it for such purposes to any substantial extent would be contrary to my intention which in that its income should be used for the larger needs through it make it sufficient, should (11) be used only for important civic improvements.

I request that the trustees named in this article shall annually designate one of their number as Treasurer to work and act during the ensuing year, and in the months of April and September or each year, and report to the board any neglect or failure to faithfully perform the provisions of said trust instrument, as well as Article First of this my will in regard to the care of said lot, and it is my wish that the board shall have full power to remove any of its members for cause.

CLARKSON, GUINER & COMPANY,
Certified Public Accountants.

Boston, September 5, 1934.

STATEMENT

In the expenditure of the Net Income of the Fund—for erecting works of public utility and beauty — the trustees adopted a policy of establishing, Nearest Units in various parts of the city, of sufficient area to serve, in the middle of the zone, a population of 10,000 to 15,000 — neither the zone nor these conditions of the community of the ordained—and—

The seven Nearest Unit buildings have come to rise from the twenty 4000 square feet to the unevenly 5000 square feet and have been erected on soil of land varying in area from 14,376 square feet to 43,000 square feet, the corresponding Nearest Units —with accommodations for equipment fully adequate to the requirements of the communities they serve—and also adjusted proportionally for use as recreation playgrounds.

In the Summer of 1933 the trustees voted to purchase seventeen parcels of real estate, bounded by Hanover street, Weaver Avenue and Otago street, in the North End—and containing approximately 34,000 square feet—as a site for a Parks.

The Parks is now under construction and when completed will provide a pleasant and shady open space for the inhabitants of the North End, and at the same time will open up a vista between two of Boston's most historic avenues, extending between the Old North Church on Salem street and St. Stephen's Church on Hanover street, a distance of four hundred and eighty feet and measuring an area of approximately eighty-five feet.

Hon. James M. Curley, Mayor of Boston, served as trustee to December 31, 1933. Joseph McGrath—President of the City Council—served as trustee in December 31, 1933. Frederic H. Snyder, President of the Chamber of Commerce, served as Trustee to July 31, 1933.
